LBJ Says Clubs Will Not Solve Racial Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, referring to "our summer of discontent," said Tuesday that democracy "never will solve its problems at the end of a billy club."

Obviously mindful of racial strife in the North and South, the President emphasized in a speech to delegates to the conference on international rural development gathered in the White House rose garden that "without compromise — without favor — we must demand and we shall maintain respect for law and order in this country."

The problems facing the nation this summer are not new, the President said. They are "only old problems which we have for too long refused to face up and have failed to meet."

Johnson noted that despite widespread prosperity, superior housing, high literacy and overall security, "there is among our people a deep discontent" because "we have not put our capacities to work."

"Our cities show it. Our rural areas show it. Our rivers and streams show it. The edges of our society show it."

Johnson said that while the United States had increased its capabilities at an unprecedented rate since World War II, the nation has failed to put its resources to full use "to make life better tomorrow for those who follow."

In urging an increased use of the nation's resources, the President said the most important step to be taken now is to provide education — "Not for some but education for all."

In a further attempt to meet the needs of the nation, Johnson said he had met with ten task forces composed of the "best brains that are available in the nation." They were asked to Washington, he said, to help prepare legislation to "meet the needs of an urban nation."

From now until January, Johnson said, members of the task forces will be studying the relation of federal, state and local governments; education; transportation, and "many of the things that will determine whether we have a great society or not."

The international rural development conference is designed to supply foreign nations with U.S. agricultural methods by closer cooperation between the Agency for International Development (AID), the Agriculture Department and the Association of State and Land Grant Colleges and Universities.

ARSENAL SEIZED — Rifles, pistols, license plates, brass knuckles, face masks and policemen's uniforms are shown in Brooklyn Federal Building in New York. The arsenal was reported to have been seized in the home of a former police officer, Nicholas Guzzo, in Union City, N. J. Guzzo was among 13 men indicted yesterday in connection with what federal authorities termed the largest postoffice burglary gang operation in the nation's history. (AP Photofax)

Khrush Willing To Ease Terms For A-Pact Talks

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev Tuesday told British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler that the Soviet Union is willing to ease its position toward talks on a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons, reliable sources said.

On the more immediate crisis in Laos, Khrushchev said the Soviet would await reaction to its call for a new international conference before deciding whether or not to carry out its threat to withdraw as co-chairman of the 1962 Geneva conference, the sources said.

The premier's expression of willingness to discuss the treaty banning the dissemination of nuclear weapons despite Western plans for a multilateral nuclear force was the major result of the Butler talks in the Kremlin, the sources said. Western observers said they considered Khrushchev's new line a definite step forward on the question of a proposed treaty among the major nuclear powers to halt the spread of such weapons.

Butler said on his arrival Monday that he came here to urge the Kremlin to drop its threat to withdraw as co-chairman with Britain on the 1962 Geneva agreement on Laos unless the conference call was heeded.

According to the sources, Butler said Britain and the United States are not opposed to the new 14-nation conference if certain conditions are met by the Communists. These included a cease-fire, withdrawal by Communist forces to positions held before their latest offensives and Communist recognition of neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Butler was expected to offer Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Wednesday a Western plan accepting the new conference provided the conditions are met.

Tribute Paid To Churchill

LONDON (UPI)—The House of Commons Tuesday paid sweeping tribute to Sir Winston Churchill.

One of his most bitter political foes, Laborite Emanuel Shinwell, lauded him as "one of our British institutions — the queen, the church, Parliament, the press and the right honorable gentleman, the member for Woodford."

After the tributes couched in soaring language for the man who served in Commons for 64 years, an all-party delegation led by Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home took a trip of homage to Churchill's London residence.

The parliamentary delegation spent 30 minutes with Churchill and presented a vellum scroll inscribed with a motion expressing "unbounded admiration and gratitude" for his 64 years of service to sovereign, nation and Parliament.

Sir Winston, who will be 90 on Nov. 30, Monday made what is expected to be his last trip to the Commons where he first took his seat on Feb. 14, 1901.

He will not run again this year and Commons recesses Friday for the final time before the autumn elections.

Slot Operators Told Cartwheel Holes Illegal

BALTIMORE (AP)—Thomas J. Kenney, U.S. attorney for Maryland, said Tuesday that Southern Maryland slot machine operators violated the law when they punched holes in silver dollars.

The holes were punched to insure an adequate supply of coins for the dollar slots in the face of an expected national shortage. The mutilated dollars were re-deemed with paper money by the slot owners.

Kenney said the Department of Justice had ruled the mutilation illegal. He said it is a violation of the U.S. code punishable by up to five years imprisonment and a fine of up to $2,000.

However, Kenney said the operators won't be prosecuted without due notice. If operators persist in using the coins the money will be seized and the operator prosecuted, he said.

The U.S. attorney said he gave notice because the operators had asked the Treasury Department about the legality of punching the holes before they did it.

The department answered the letters and quoted the law, without saying whether the punching was legal or illegal, said the U.S. attorney.

"Since they made a bona fide effort to find out, and their answers were indefinite," Kenney said, "the government is reluctant to prosecute until everyone has had sufficient notice."

The move left the slot operators with an undetermined amount of mutilated silver dollars, which they can't spend and can't use in their machines. However, the money can be re-deemed at the Treasury Department for less than its face value, Kenney explained.

Body Discovered Near Uniontown

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—A group of Boy Scouts searching a wooded area here Tuesday discovered the body of a man tentatively identified as Archie Lemon, who had been missing from his home since last week.

The body was covered with a blanket. Lemon, 52, was last seen on Friday. His car was found abandoned near the wooded section Monday, leading authorities to believe the body was his. A preliminary examination indicated death was due to a bullet wound in the back.

Lemon and a woman companion, Marnetta Bryte, were to go on trial in September on charges of attempting to extort $9,000 from the Fayette County Commissioners.

The indictment against Lemon and the Bryte woman was based on a contention that they had found $50,000 worth of checks which had been left in a downtown shoe store by a woman employee of the county. It was charged that the two attempted to obtain $9,000 in return for the checks.

Today's 'Rain Day' In Waynesburg, Pa.

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UPI)—If it rains here Wednesday — July 29 — residents of southwestern Pennsylvania community will again find their place in the sun.

Rain in Waynesburg on a July 29 is almost a certainty. In the last 86 years, it has failed to rain on "rain day" only 10 times.

The tradition began many years ago when a farmer walked into Bill Allison's drug store and remarked "It's mighty peccating Eastern Bay and the Chester River at Grasonville, Queen Annes County."

Two Youths Escape From Arundel Jail

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Two teen-age youths escaped from Anne Arundel County Jail Tuesday afternoon by climbing through a ventilator shaft on the third floor.

County police said the two were Stephen Earl Perrigoy, 18, white, of the Glen Burnie area and Winston Burse, 16, a Negro, of Washington.

Perrigoy was wearing gray trousers and white tee shirt and has a completely shaven head. Burse was wearing a white tee shirt and light blue bermuda shorts.

Police at Edgewater said the boys had been taken to a shower room on the third floor and apparently climbed through the shaft.

Gunmen Take $56,000 In Jewels, Kill Cabbie

PARIS (UPI)—Masked gunmen robbed jewelry showcases in the lobby of the fashionable Plaza-Thence Hotel in the heart of Paris on an estimated $56,000 in gems Tuesday and then shot and killed a taxi-driver while making good their getaway.

Most of the jewels came from the showcases of New York jeweler Harry Winston, Police Commissioner Jean Morin said. Police said the robbery was staged with precision. A black sedan drew up outside the hotel on Avenue Montaigne, just off the Champs d'Elysees, shortly before 1 a.m. Three men got out while the fourth remained at the wheel.

Pulling masks over their faces, the three men entered the lobby of the hotel where many American and other foreign buyers are staying for the current fashion shows.

Two gunmen covered the night porters and an unidentified American waiting for an elevator. The third gunman tried to break the heavy protective glass on the Winston showcase with a hammer but failed. He then shattered the glass with a bullet.

The gunman also shot open two other showcases and rifled their contents, but missed earrings valued at $10,000.

Actual steam is not visible.

18 Killed As Three Chiang Planes Crash

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Three Nationalist Chinese air force transport planes crashed into a mountain in follow-the-leader fashion Tuesday, killing all 18 crew members.

The C46 transports of World War II vintage hit a 2,413-foot peak in southern Formosa.

An air force spokesman blamed a navigational error. He said the three aircraft were on a routine night training mission and were flying in close formation.

The C46 is the backbone of the Nationalist Chinese air transport system and it was the same type plane used by civilian air transport which crashed in central Formosa June 20 killing all 57 persons aboard.

Storm Over SRC Plans For Bay Span Continues

By The Associated Press

The storming over intention of the State Roads Commission to proceed with construction of a duplicate of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge continued Tuesday.

Protests from both sides of the bay were largely against any construction without prior approval by the Maryland Legislature.

Some of the outcry also was motivated by efforts to build the second crossing higher up the bay instead of alongside the present structure between Anne Arundel and Queen Annes counties.

Del. James H. Caldwell, D-Wicomico, added his voice to those objecting to John B. Funk, commission chairman, over plans to act without legislative sanction.

Caldwell wrote Funk that he was "amazed and disturbed at the latest maneuver in your campaign of power grabbing."

The 1964 legislature received a report of a survey on location of another bay bridge, but took no action.

The commission intends to ask the attorney general whether it may go ahead regardless.

Philip H. Goodman, former Baltimore mayor and state senator, called it a "clear attempt to grab a $75 million bonanza before the termination of the Tawes regime."

Gov. Tawes, who leaves office Jan. 1, 1966, said at a news conference last Thursday that he has "never been in favor of bypassing the legislature on anything."

He added, however, he would accept the survey report that construction of the second span parallel to the existing one would be more economical and feasible.

The other proposed locations were in the lower bay from Southern Maryland and from the vicinity of Baltimore.

Rep. Clarence D. Long of Baltimore, Harford and Carroll counties has been vigorously pressing for a crossing from his area.

He has asked the House of Representatives to grant permission to build either the parallel bridge or in the Baltimore area.

"It should be the role of the Maryland General Assembly to determine the actual location of the second bay bridge," Long said.

The engineering studies submitted to the legislature estimated cost of the parallel span at $75 million and $175 million for the upper bay crossing. In addition, approach roads at the new location would cost between $20 and $30 million.

Salisbury Man Charged With Rape, Burglary

SALISBURY (AP) — A grand jury returned indictments Tuesday charging a service station attendant with rape and burglary.

The accused, Ralph Patrick Sullivan Sr., 22, of Salisbury, was arrested by police July 20.

They charged him with the rape of a student nurse July 12, as she slept in her dormitory room at Peninsula General Hospital, and the rape of a 52-year-old cook two nights later as she slept in the bedroom of her home.

The two attacks had created a feeling of uneasiness in Salisbury women. Police Chief William J. Chatham asked that anything out of the ordinary be reported and for several nights there was a rash of such reports.

The grand jury foreman, Salisbury jeweler John R. Purcell, told Judge Rex A. Taylor of Circuit Court as the indictments were returned that the jury wanted to commend the Police Department for its quick arrest and State's Attorney Alfred T. Truitt Jr. for recalling the jury as soon as possible to hear the charges.

Union Charges Market Lockout, Demands Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A union leader asked Congress Tuesday to investigate the role of multi-employer associations in collective bargaining.

The request came from James A. Suffridge, president of the Retail Clerks International Association, which was recently involved in a long work stoppage involving seven food chains operating in and near Baltimore.

When a local of the clerks union struck one chain on April 17, all seven promptly shut down, remaining closed for 10 weeks. Later, six of the chains reopened their stores and the strike against the seventh, Acme, was settled 10 days ago.

Suffridge asked a House Labor subcommittee to look into the development of industry-wide lockouts as an instrument of labor relations policy, and urged legislation declaring them unfair labor practices under the Taft-Hartley law.

"The employee lockout is a dark, unexplored cave of today's interstate labor relations," he said.

The subcommittee is holding two days of hearings centering on the Maryland food strike, but going into the fundamental labor policy questions it raised, rather than the dispute itself.

On Thursday the subcommittee will hear representatives of the food chains involved in the dispute.

James Roosevelt, D-Calif., subcommittee chairman said Suffridge's testimony raised such fundamental questions that a full-scale inquiry was in order next session. He said he would recommend such a study be made by the next Congress.

Besides calling for legislation to bar multi-employer associations, Suffridge said changes in the Fair Labor Standards Act are needed to protect the wage scale of part-time workers in the food industry.

They now work at a lower hourly rate and without the fringe benefits of full-time employees, he said, with the result that employers are turning more and more to the use of part-time help.

In 1960, when the union negotiated its last contract with the Maryland employers, he said, 60 per cent of the 5,000 union members were on a full-time basis. Now only 45 per cent are, he said.

The trend is apparent throughout the retail industry, he said, and calls for legislation providing equal pay scale for part-time and full-time employees.

FULL SAIL AHEAD — Indonesian sailors unfurl sails on the training ship, Dewarutji, as the bark began a trip down the Chesapeake Bay from Annapolis to Norfolk, Va., yesterday. The ship, used to train cadets in the Indonesian Navy, stopped at the U. S. Naval Academy for three days. After leaving Norfolk, it will pass through the Panama Canal to San Diego, Calif., then across the Pacific to wind up its 26,500-mile cruise around the world at its home port in Indonesia. Indonesian Cadets Sail ANNAPOLIS (AP) — An Indonesian training ship sailed down the Chesapeake Bay toward Norfolk, Va., Tuesday after spending three days at the U. S. Naval Academy.

The Dewarutji, a three-masted bark, is on a 26,500 mile cruise around the world. It will arrive in Norfolk Wednesday and, after one day there, will go on through the Panama Canal to San Diego, Calif., across the Pacific and back to Indonesia.

The 40 cadets aboard the Dewarutji from the Indonesian Naval Academy stayed with their American counterparts during the visit to Annapolis. The ship also carries a crew of 62 officers and enlisted men.

The stay at Annapolis included a reception Monday night on board the Dewarutji, with Americans and Indonesians dancing the twist to music provided by a combo of four Indonesian cadets and an American midshipman.

Marylanders Silent On Demo Platform Issues

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's members of the Democratic national campaign platform, Sen. Mary L. Nock and Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, are refraining from committing themselves on planks relating to civil rights and extremist groups by name.

Both were hot subjects at the Republican conclave. Republican liberals sought in vain for a stronger statement on civil rights and to condemn extremist groups by name.

Sen. Nock and Goldstein said they would have no positive statements on either topic until they were offered specific language at the Democratic convention next month in Atlantic City, N.J.

Mrs. Nock said her attitude on civil rights is that since there is a federal law, "it should be obeyed. I think every citizen should abide by the law."

Goldstein likewise said "I feel the law should be enforced. I'm 100 per cent behind law and order. This nation has prospered because of law of order."

As to extremists, Mrs. Nock said "if someone raises the issue, I'll make a statement on my feelings at that time. I take no extreme positions on anything myself."

Goldstein said "I am opposed to extremists." But he added it might be a mistake to single out specific groups because some might be overlooked.

The world's oceans, which cover 71 per cent of the earth's surface, have greater depths than the highest elevation of land.

Robert Cropper has been feuding with his cousin and other Ocean City officials about the city-owned boardwalk trains, contending they infringe on his one-bus line.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Frank H. Rogan, town clerk of Mel-bourne, Australia, says commuters are similar the world over — "pretty piggish."

As to the commuter rush, Rogan said: "I'll go before them, and leave after them, but I'll be damned if I'll go with them."

Rogan stopped in Baltimore as he began a tour of U.S. cities which will later take him to New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Mayor Osvey C. Pritchett says he sees no reason to keep the Cambridge Human Relations Committee functioning because the town's racial troubles have quieted down and a committee appointed by Gov. Tawes is still in existence.

Mayor Pritchett said, however, that he would meet with the group before deciding whether it should be disbanded.

Pritchett took office last week. His views on the biracial group were expressed at a Monday night council meeting.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Wrong Word Can Make You Look Ridiculous

It is good to check yourself frequently on the words that are most frequently confused, the most common pitfalls of our language.

A few of the word-traps that are similar in sound, spelling or usage, but different in meaning, are given below. Underline the correct word and check your answers below to see how safe you are from making such errors.

1. Will this change (affect or effect) your plans?
2. She was very (eager or anxious) to wear her new clothes.
3. He would not give (advise or advice) to the young travelers.
4. There were only two persons there with (mutual or common) interests.
5. He was (all together or altogether) impossible.
6. The mother was always the (disinterested or uninterested) judge in the children's squabbles.
7. Only an (ingenious or ingenuous) child could have accomplished such a feat.
8. Springfield is the state (capital or capitol).
9. They had (already or all ready) procured a clubroom.
10. He was (alright or all right) when I last saw him.

Answers:
1. Affect, which means to influence. Effect means to produce, when used as a verb, and result, when used as a noun.
2. Eager is preferred. Anxious generally implies impending ill.
3. Advice. Advise is a verb.
4. Common, which means shared by two or more individuals. Mutual generally implies reciprocity and is frowned on by careful writers when used interchangeably with common.
5. Altogether, which as an adverb means wholly or thoroughly.
6. Disinterested. Uninterested means not concerned at all.

Youth Marks Fall Fashions

By LOUISE HICKMAN
A. P. Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP)—Louis Feraud's collection, presented Monday in Paris, was young, young-full of nifty little "sweater" dresses, and with flirty ruffles on everything imaginable.

Ruffled satin "pantaloon" boots were worn with a black satin coat, double-breasted and collared in bias ruffles. Bias organza ruffles on the wide round neckline of a print wool sweater tube were layered in the print colors. Close-packed violet lace ruffles filled in the deep, open V of another sweater tube in violet angora jersey.

Leopard-print chiffon was used for a sweater wisp with long close sleeves, a string-tied slash-neckline, and faintly trumpet skirt. There were leopard-print chiffon gloves to match.

Short, tidy cardigan boleros were built right into straight dresses in jeweled lame or wallpaper-printed sheer wool.

Feraud used lots of colored hand prints. In navy and green, they traced an open-coat effect on a slightly flared garnet sweater dress. Wide, and in red and blue, they circled the midriff of a gray wool reefer.

Fuchsia and cherry shades mixed with dark grape made the stand-out color combinations. Hats with the Feraud clothes were little round beanie berets worn tilted over the forehead.

The sweater look was also important in the Madeleine de Rauch show. A long, straight brown broadtail cardigan bound in the brown and white tweed of its slim dress, got lots of applause.

The De Rauch collection had lots of oatmeal tweeds and beige fluffy furs. Plum and warm brown were important colors.

Earlier in the day, Jacques Esterel and Ferreras, each in his own way, showed clothes with the soft bulky look that comes from thick fur linings, or padded quilting.

mentarian; Mrs. Connor, publicity; Mrs. Vallie Michael, Rural Women's Short Course; Mrs. Clark, 4-H representative and Mrs. Michael, sunshine.

Velvet Touch

You may think that cotton and velvet don't mix. But in late summer, you'll find that you can add a dressy touch to dark, transitional cottons if you wear them with a velvet hat.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 30-year-old man, good-looking, well-built, well-read and well-traveled. I have devoted so much time to cultural interests, music, art, and literature that I neglected the business aspect of my life. As a result I have very little money.

I would like to meet a fine woman and get married but this poses a real problem. I cannot stand homely women and I can't afford to marry a poor one. I have met dozens of women with money but I just can't look at them for more than 10 minutes without feeling it would not be worth it.

The beautiful women I've known are all searching for someone who can set them up in style which of course, I cannot.

I am serious about this, Ann. I am not a crackpot. I have many fine qualities and could make a woman very happy. I need some outside help. Do you happen to know of anybody. I will be happy to send a picture.

—Q. T. X.

DEAR Q. T. X.: I HAVE a picture. Please don't send one.

Why don't you forget about both money and beauty and try to find a girl with brains? There should be at least one working set in each family and I see no evidence that you have any.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a man who has a job as bookkeeper in a credit union and goes around telling everybody (after three martinis) who owes what?

This is the situation in our organization and it is more than I can stand. I am a member of the credit union but I do not owe them anything. Several of my friends do, however, and I am furious on their account. It is embarrassing for one friend in particular to have it known that he is in debt up to the legal limit.

Should I tip off the chief executive who would have the man removed at once? Frankly, I detest him but I don't want to be responsible for a family man

Beauty On A Bus

By KATHRYN JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer

Few women care to admit that they ever do such things as apply makeup on a bus, but one made this rare confession today:

"Once I changed stockings on the back seat of a bus, I was rushing around the house to catch my bus, realized I had a run, and grabbed another pair."

"I sat in the back where few people were sitting and changed my hose — surreptitiously, of course. The only trouble I had was having to half-way stand to hook my garter belt."

Of course she asked to remain anonymous.

Said a business man who also asked anonymity: "It's bad enough to have to get up early and go to work. It's worse when you have to watch some gay young chick apply makeup on her sleepy face while riding on a bus."

"And those young things who get on a bus wearing those huge, perfectly awful curlers and nets that tie under the chin all look simply ghastly."

The bus as a semi-boudoir seems to be quite the thing nowadays.

A woman was combing her hair on a bus recently—and into the lap of the man sitting behind her. The man tapped her on the shoulder and said: "Into the aisle, please."

Only a few of the women asked to comment on the bus makeup binge would admit to any such thing. Male witnesses, however, said they had seen women apply eye shadow, eye lining and lipstick, spray their hair, use dental tape and even adjust their girdles on morning buses.

"I'll occasionally put on a patch job of fingernail polish," one woman said, "but the bus sways and jars too much for a decent whole job."

Said a pretty blonde secretary: "Once I was putting on lipstick when the bus came to a jarring halt. My lipstick jabbed all over my face. I looked as if I'd been slashed!"

Said a middle-aged businesswoman: "The bane of my existence is the woman who files her nails on the bus. It grates me."

Another man's comment: "I don't mind it when women put on their makeup on a bus, so long as they don't talk—to me or to anyone else. I hear enough talking at home."

Fort Hill 1949 Class Plans 20th Anniversary, Elects

Officers were elected and plans were discussed for another reunion in five years, by members of the Fort Hill High School Class of 1949 during its 15th anniversary celebration Saturday evening at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Charles Lattimer and Glenn Burke were selected co-chairmen for the 20th anniversary reunion, which will be held sometime during the summer. Mrs. Dorothy Triplett Winterstine was elected secretary-treasurer.

The celebration began with an informal get-together, followed by a dinner, with Mr. Lattimer, member of the class and football coach at Fort Hill, serving as toastmaster. William Wilson offered the invocation and conducted a memorial for the five deceased members of the class, reading an original poem by Mrs. Donna Lattimer. Those remembered were Constance Brant Stevens, Theodore Haufman, Ann Kirby Mann, Vivian Ryan Grapes and Carl Thompson.

In place of having souvenir booklets, each member of the class responded with an oral review of his last five years. Jack Holliday received a prize for being the best story teller. Other awards presented were to Mrs. Maxine Robinette, San Diego, Calif., for traveling the greatest distance; Mrs. Barbara Matheny Santamaria, Baltimore, the least changed; James Eckard, the baldest; Richard Matlick, the single member who had not lost hope, received a "Hope Diamond"; Mrs. Rosalie Kimmel McIntyre, for "motherhood." Other prizes were won by Mrs. Dorothy Friedland Babcock and Mrs. Pauline Weber McKay.

Special guests were basketball coach, John J. Cavanaugh and Mrs. Cavanaugh; Mrs. Kitty Pafel Wilson, secretary, and Simeon Wilson; Carl Ritchie, financial advisor to the class, and Mrs. Ritchie; Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill in 1949, and Mrs. Heisey.

Arrangements of summer flowers centered the tables. Covers were laid for 113. Following the dinner pictures of the group were taken. Dancing concluded the evening, with music from 9 until 1 o'clock by Tommy Smith's orchestra.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Mrs. Winterstine, James Winterstine, Gene Mason, Larry Davis, Mr. Eckard, Mrs. Nadine Atkinson Gurley, Mr. Burke, Edgar Reynolds, Mr. Lattimer, Richard Wheeler, Mrs. Dorothy Brinkman Babcock, Mrs. Aleta Conway Creiger, Mrs. Rose Billie Brant Mors and James Morris.

LOW NECKLINE AND FOXY CUDDLE COAT — At least there's a bodice to this salmon brocade dinner dress by Donald Brooks of Townley, shown on the left. It's black wool with long sleeves to make up for the bareness elsewhere. The dress was part of the winter fashions shown to more than 200 fashion writers in New York for the week-long program sponsored by the New York Couture Group. Also shown was the coat, on the right, prepared to outfox a blizzard. The coat and matching hat, is designed by Lilly Dache from canary kit fox pelts worn horizontally. The coat was modeled for Wells-Treister, fur fashion house during the opening day of the fall style previews arranged by well-known American designers. (AP PHOTO/FAX)

The Cook-Mitchell family reunion will be held August 2 at Steward's Park, seven miles east of Elkins, W. Va., on Route 33. A picnic lunch will be held at noon. Swimming and games during the afternoon.

The Twiggstown Homemakers Club will hold its regular meeting in conjunction with a family picnic Saturday. It will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Rice, Rice Hollow Road, beginning about 6:30 p.m.

Club 43, composed of members of the Fort Hill High School class of 1943, will sponsor a hay ride and wiener roast August 1.

It is for all members of the class, their husbands or wives, and will be through Bedford Valley, followed by the wiener roast around Lake Koon.

Officers of the club will meet tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Flora, Yale Street, to complete plans.

Members are asked to call Mrs. Hazel Lee Willig, 724-2572, for particulars and reservations.

She's Young At 62

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

At 62, Lizalotta Valesca's figure is more youthful looking even than it was a few years ago.

How does she do it?

The former Miss Finland attributes her size 10, 36-25-36 figure to exercise and proper diet and points out that seven years ago, before she began her regimen, she had capillaries over her legs and arthritic problems.

"Few people stop to consider how nerves branch out in their bodies, and how they can be helped by exercise. If they would think about it, they could rid themselves of aches and pains."

Three important things in keeping youthful and healthy, she believes, are (1) a supple spine, (2) a healthy abdomen (where vital organs are located) and (3) good breathing. And to exercise a person must learn to breathe properly, she says.

"We can improve, arrest, repair and prevent body ills if we would take the time," she says. "Walking is one of the most beneficial exercises. It promotes better blood circulation and is essential to muscles."

When she wrote a book, "More Than Beauty," many older people wrote for advice about "cricks in their knees, collarbones, shoulders and backs," and in giving lectures and private lessons to people, she has come to the conclusion that people encourage old age by doing nothing to prevent it.

Exercises should always be done slowly, she says. But one should often just sit motionless for perfect relaxation, and at least two minutes a day should be spent in just standing in a rigid position, keeping feet together.

She is willing to share these personal exercises with you:

Strengthen arms: (particularly flabby upper arm part) Clench hand into fist, twist arm from wrist up and hold it taut.

Strengthen thighs: (particularly flabby inner part) Stand on toes, and slowly bend knees as you drop down. (Hold back of chair with one hand if you need support.)

Strengthen abdominal muscles and intestinal tract: Lie on floor, palpitate abdominal area in an "in," "out," muscle control.

Neck muscles, thyroid gland stimulator: Lie flat, raise neck a few inches from floor, hold for a minute or so. Relax. Another for neck muscles may be done sitting down: Roll head in a clockwise movement.

9-The Cumberland News Wednesday, July 29, 1964

Spine Strengtheners: Lie down, raise knees toward chest, clasp hands, rock gently forward and backward along spine.

Spine strengthener and organ toner: Lie on back, raise legs together up and over head as far as possible. Keep chin pressed to chest. Bring legs to original position. Repeat.

Stomach Muscle Strengtheners: Lie on floor, raising legs slowly as you count to 10.

For toning innards: Lie down, palms on floor, raise head and upper trunk of body. Lower yourself and repeat. Should be done slowly.

For all muscles: Lie on floor, crawl snakelike across floor, moving body in all directions in a shaking motion.

Leg muscles: Strengthen them by walking on all fours across the room without bending knees. And when spine feels stiff or achy, merely rub calves upwards with your hands for a brief moment.

For circulatory and respiratory system, this is one of Mrs. Valesca's favorite exercises:

Lie on floor or bed. Slowly raise legs and trunk, supporting your back with your hands.

Bring legs up as far as possible even if you must use wall for support, and you will at first. Head and shoulders touch floor as legs go up. Breathe slowly, avoid jerky motion. Hold position for one or more minutes. This is a variation of the Yoga headstand, she says, and gives the same results—an alert, keen mind—by "bringing blood to the brain cells."

South's disappointment at the highly unfavorable trump break nature dealt him in his six diamond contract blinded him to the possibility that the slam might still be within his grasp, and his bitter concession of defeat turned out to be premature.

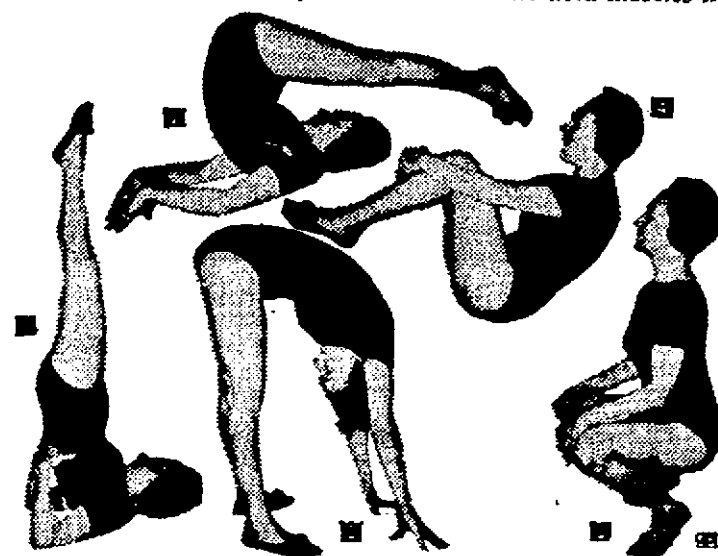

South's hand is worth 18 points, counting high cards and distribution, and with a virtually solid suit he is fully warranted in flashing the slam signal by making a jump shift response. South took full charge of the subsequent proceedings and, after his partner showed the heart suit he proceeded forthwith to six diamonds.

West opened the 10 of spades, taken by declarer's ace, and there appeared to be nothing to the hand if diamonds broke in any reasonable manner. When South played the ace of trumps, however, East showed out—which was a most bitter blow. In fact, it so unsettled the declarer to find all of the diamonds banded behind him that he bluntly conceded two trump tricks to West and proceeded to inform everyone of the odds to which he had paid off.

When the dummy was spread, South was roughly an 8-to-1 shot to succeed, but the supreme irony of the deal was that, even after the horrendous division in diamonds, it was still in his power to make the slam. His prospects hinged on being able to reduce his diamond holding to the same length as West's and then endplaying his opponent in the trump suit.

At trick three a club is led to dummy's ace and a small club is ruffed. The king and ace of hearts are cashed and another club is trumped. The appearance of West's queen on the third round of clubs suggests the abandonment of that suit, so the remaining two spades are cashed, ending in the North hand, and a heart is ruffed.

South is now down to the king-9-8 of diamonds, while West retains the Q-J-4. A small trump lead throws West in with the jack and he must surrender the last two tricks to the declarer.

HERE'S HOW — 1. Shoulders stand — From supine position slowly raise legs, trunk, supporting back with hands. 2. Lie on back, raise legs up over head far as possible. 3. Walk on all fours. 4. Lie down, raise knees to chest, clasp hands around them, rock. 5. Stand on toes, slowly bend knees as drop down.

Kochis, of Clarksville, Pa., won support from four West Virginia locals during the week-end to assure his candidacy. Under UMW laws, a candidate for the union's presidency must be endorsed by at least five locals.

Kochis now has the backing of 10 locals, but was voted down by his own local at Bobtown, Pa., which will support Boyle and the UMW's regular slate of candidates.

The union election will be held at the UMW's international headquarters in Washington, D.C., in September.

Fulbright Sees Possibility Russia May Help Build New Central America Canal

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations committee raises the possibility in a speech Tuesday that the Soviet Union might join with the United States and other nations to build and operate a sea-level canal across Central America.

The Arkansas Democrat says he is not advocating Soviet participation in a new canal project but "neither do I think it must be ruled out as unthinkable."

Fulbright says a sea-level canal, larger than the present Panama Canal must be built eventually.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Agriculture announced Monday that a rabies quarantine through Kanawha County will be in effect during August.

Gus Douglass, assistant agriculture commissioner, said the step was taken because of the disturbing incidence of rabies in domestic and wild animals. Douglass urged all dog owners to keep their pets on leashes and to have them vaccinated against rabies.

The book, "Old Myths and New Realities," published by Random House, is based on an expansion of speeches which Fulbright has made.

It develops his basic theme that the United States needs to overcome what he calls a "cold war mentality," rid itself of unrealistic ideas about the state of the world, and work for "a worldwide state of mind in which peace is favored over war."

The United States, he declared, should definitely consider having the new waterway built by a consortium—a partnership of governments. He then suggests that the Soviet Union as a user of the Panama Canal might be a member of the consortium.

As one member of the group, Fulbright says, the Soviets would not be likely to disrupt the operation of the canal nor does he feel they would gain a new base for "subversion in Latin America."

On the positive side, he said, the Soviets might be strengthened in "their commitment to a peaceful status quo" so that Fitch, suffering superficial through this international co-operations, was treated and reoperation there could be a gain leased at Reynolds Memorial "for world peace and stability." WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk won a commendation from Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Monday for what Morse called "leadership and statesmanship" during last week's Organization of American States meeting on Cuba.

The meeting ended with the signing of a resolution ordering sanctions against Cuba for aggression in having sent arms to subversives in Venezuela.

Morse, who has been a consistent critic of Rusk and of U.S. policy in South Viet Nam, said that in the Cuban case the U.S. resorted "to the rule of law."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The amounts of radioactive strontium in food and beverages consumed by students last year at 21 boarding schools and institutions across the country were below health risk levels, the Public Health Service reported Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Admiral Arleigh Burke, former chief of Naval operations, is heading the new Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation, Inc., which aims to establish closer cultural ties between the United States and South Korea, it was announced Monday.

The primary purpose of the foundation is to further the containment of communism in Asia, an announcement said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman says American aid to underdeveloped countries can be justified because of the prospect that it will open up new markets for this country's products.

"In future years," he said, "the most rapid growth in our markets for farm products will be found in that great underdeveloped market that lies in the developing countries of the world."

Such aid, Freeman said, "strengthens political independence and freedom, and thus contributes to security and peace. It is morally right."

Shoe manufacturers turn out more than three pairs a year for every man, woman and child in the United States. The total annual output is more than 600 million pairs.

West Virginia Presidential Candidate Talks About Plans

By J. RICHARD TOREN
JANE LEW, W. Va. (UPI)—Well-wishers stopped at Lightburn's General Store in large numbers Monday to offer congratulations to their hometown presidential nominee, Joseph B. Lightburn of the Constitution Party of the U. S.

But Joe Lightburn wasn't tending the shop. He left that job in the hands of Joe Jr., while he rested up after pulling into town at 3:30 a.m. by taxi from Clarksburg 18 miles away.

Lightburn, nominated Friday at Houston on a ticket that he said will be on the ballot in at least four states, sent a postcard last Wednesday telling his son he'll arrive at Clarksburg by train at 1:15 Monday.

"But it wasn't delivered until this morning, so my boy wasn't there," he said. Lightburn and the other West Virginia delegate to the Constitution Party convention had to take a taxi home.

Lightburn slept in and didn't plan to go to the store until late in the day.

He spoke freely at his home about his plans for the campaign.

Campaign headquarters will be a small office at the rear of the store, which since 1957 has been used as a "literature pamphlets on the Constitution Party."

"In this campaign, we're going to use the party platform, the U. S. Constitution and the truth," he said. "It'll be an easy thing to do, because when you're telling the truth you don't make any mistakes."

The truth as Lightburn sees it is that the Democratic and Republican parties "are really just one party — the Democratic party, we call it."

"They're both operating along the lines of ruining this constitutional Republic," he said.

Lightburn, no political amateur, talks with refreshing candor.

He likes Sen. Barry Goldwater's view that extremism in the cause of liberty is "no vice," but says at the same time "I don't want to associate my ideas with Goldwater."

"I've never liked Goldwater," he said. "It seems he about-faces too much."

"And from information I got at Houston, Gov. (George) Wallace was as one time a liberal, then decided to jump on the segregationist bandwagon. From all I can gather he's a political opportunist."

"In our party we don't like anyone who has any ideas other than ours, and we don't like anyone who double-talks," he said.

Son of a Civil War brigadier general and born at the nearby village of Lightburn 64 years ago, Lightburn has spent his entire life in this rural section of north-central West Virginia.

He's been in the mercantile business for 37 years, operating Lightburn's General Store along with his son, Joe Jr., 34, since 1957.

"I went into politics about 1950 fighting bond issues and levies," he said, beginning as a regular Republican.

He was town council member, come tax and the United Na- mayor of Jane Lew, and in 1952 tion as treaty, and restoration was an alternate delegate to of independent state militias. the GOP national convention. Although the party has never been on the ballot in West Vir- ginia — and won't be this fall, either — Lightburn rose to vice chairman and was active in drawing up the platform adopt- ed at last week's Houston con- vention.

McKeesport Milk Scare

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (UPI)—sample milk until it could be tested in a laboratory.

A mild scare which began with the disappearance of a sample bottle of milk containing a poisonous preservative ended today.

A 14-year-old boy led police to the place where he said two younger boys had thrown the bottle because its contents "smelled bad."

None of the boys was identified because of their ages. Police said the milk bottle actually was taken from a truck yesterday by two youngsters aged 10 and 11.

The older boy learned of the bottle's whereabouts and, after hearing police warnings about the bottle's deadly contents, he contacted authorities.

When officers arrived, the youth led them to a hillside where the bottle was recovered.

The younger boys were detained by juvenile authorities, but were to be released into custody of their parents.

The preservative had been placed in the bottle to retain the butterfat content of the

Briton Trying To Solve Puzzle Of Double-Fs

LONDON (UPI) — A young Briton named Anthony French said Monday he is trying to solve the puzzle of the Double-F in his family name and in those of the Fitches, Fiores, and Ffisks.

There are 23 names in the London directory beginning with the double-F. Some like French capitalize the first F. Others, like Miss Valentine French and Mrs. C. I. ffiske capitalize neither.

Some of the double-F's are nationally known, including Sir Arthur Ffiorde, former chairman of the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC).

Ffiorde — with a small second f — often had admitted that he did not know why his name was spelled that way. "I inherited the spelling," he said, "and it seems hardly worthwhile to change."

French said he has spent three years working in his spare time trying to solve the riddle.

One theory, he said, is that the double-F signified that an ancestor was beheaded.

But he added that he believed most of the names were adopted out of snobbery.

French said his own family — got its name back in 1817 when one Michael French suddenly adopted the double-F spelling for no apparent reason but "snobbish whim."

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—The nation's streets and highways will be carrying 40 per cent more vehicles in 1975 than they are today, projections made by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company indicate.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The shopper "tastes" as well as sees the color of the package she selects in her marketing.

The color of the coffee can or the hue of an eggshell can be a major influence in the consumer's buying decision because of association with physical taste, say experts for one industrial design and marketing consultant firm.

The authorities, in an article called "the taste of color" in Design Sense report that color is so strongly associated with flavor of the product that "it would probably be no exaggeration to say that if, overnight, food coloring became unavailable whole industries, or certainly very large segments of them would face serious economic dislocations."

Design Sense is the monthly marketing publication of Lipincott & Margulies, Inc., which did a taste-color test on coffee among 200 housewives. The women were asked to sample four fresh-brewed cups of coffee.

Beside each cup was a coffee can of a single solid color without further identification. The colors were red, blue, brown and yellow. The women were asked to judge the flavors. About three-fourths of the housewives felt that the coffee beside the brown can was overly-strong. About 85 per cent thought the coffee beside the red container was richer. The blue can suggested to most of them a mild brew, while the yellow was "weak."

What the women didn't know was that the coffee in each cup was identical, said the researchers.

Design Sense pointed out that in many areas of the country women insist on white eggs and will pay as much as five cents more per dozen for them than for brown because the whites "just seem to have a fresher taste." This, despite the fact the poultry industry repeatedly says there is no difference in either taste or nutritional value.

Fashion Parade Almost Has Topless Dress

PARIS (UPI) — The Paris winter fashion parade almost had a topless dress Monday.

At designer Louis Feraud's show, judged the smash success of opening day, a model with hanks of hair over each shoulder glided out in a purple suede sleeveless dress slit widely from neck to waist.

That outfit set the tone for the way-out, young and fresh show of Feraud who is reproducing his line in Japan, England, Germany, Canada and the United States.

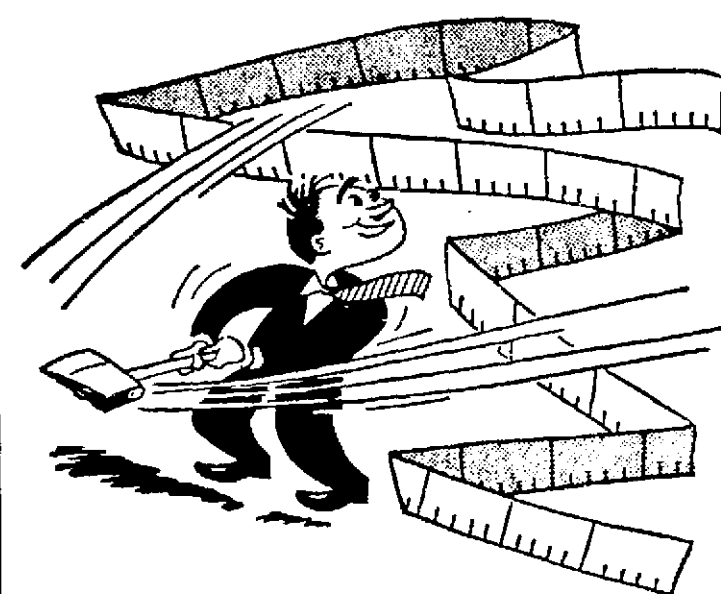

Feraud was among three designers to present slacks for streetwear. His white ribbed wool slacks were topped with a navy blue edgel in white.

Designer Madeleine de Rauch presented slacks and a loose sleeveless top cut like a French workman's overalls, but in elegant camel's hair cloth.

Designer Jacques Esterel also moved slack suits for street wear, a fashion idea that showed up in last spring's Paris collections and appeared to be snowballing.

Versatile Ink

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI) — Some strange uses for fountain pen ink comes to light in mail reaching Sheaffer Pen research chemists here. Housewives praise blue ink as a laundry blueing and as a dye for furniture fabrics, blouses and hats. A Midwest mortician says red ink makes an excellent cosmetic. Any color writing fluid is helpful in treating burns and poison ivy irritation because of the tannic acid content, others report. But the pen company continues to recommend its product for writing only.

IRS Rules Damage Claims Deductible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) said Monday that electrical equipment manufacturers could deduct hundreds of millions of dollars in damage claims they are paying to state and local governments and private utilities.

The IRS ruling said the claims, as well as attorney fees and other expenses incurred by the firms while defending themselves against the claims, "are deductible as ordinary and necessary business expenses."

It was a precedent-setting decision. An IRS spokesman said that although a similar ruling had been made on claims brought under the Emergency Price Control Act during World War II, this was the first ruling under the Clayton antitrust act.

But the IRS said the equipment makers may not deduct damages paid to the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) and other federal government agencies for the fines imposed by a federal court in Philadelphia in 1961.

The IRS justified this distinction on grounds that claims by the states, localities and private utilities are "remedial in nature," brought to recover damages but "not to punish the wrongdoers."

Damage claims by the United States, on the other hand, are "punishment for injury to the public occasioned by the violation of law," the ruling said.

Twenty-nine electrical equipment makers were charged in 1960 with fixing prices and rigging bids. Some pleaded guilty, others pleaded no contest.

The court imposed fines totaling $1.8 million and jail sentences for several top executives. The criminal action opened the way for state and local governments and private utilities to sue for triple damages and the federal government to sue for straight damages.

More than 1,800 civil suits totaling hundreds of millions of dollars were filed. Some 450 of these have been settled out of court.

The federal government has received $8.8 million from 12 firms and his claims pending against two others.

There's no estimate of how much the manufacturers have paid state and local governments and private utilities.

But one of the firms, General Electric, is reported to have paid about $182 million so far. Westinghouse has set aside $50 million to pay claims.

Last month, in the first claim to go to a jury, six equipment makers were ordered to pay $29 million in damages.

The palace of King Mines in ancient Crete was as large as Buckingham Palace in London.

TV's Best Game Shows Originate In New York

By DICK CLARK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most if not all of the good television game shows originate in New York, rather than Hollywood, and it's easy to see why.

A vital ingredient of any good video game is the contestant of amateur performer. There are no amateurs in Hollywood.

In Hollywood, everybody—bless 'em—is always "on." Even the contestants are pros. And, of course, it's all a result of living in a one-industry town.

Anyone in Hollywood who isn't directly involved in show business knows somebody who is.

It's even tough—as I know from experience—to find contestants who aren't show-biz looking. (No, I can't explain this phenomenon: It must be and is permitted to pick the sawdust!) So Joe Glut's card reads that he's a plumber from Seattle. Well, he was—20 years ago. Right now, Joe's a movie hit player out of work.

That doctor on the panel should be a pro in the operating room—and he may be, but it also turns out that all his patients are in show business. The tennis player is a tennis player, all right, but he teaches the stars.

Hollywood natives are hams in the healthiest sense of the word. But it's just this uninhibited, "Hey, look at me!" quality that makes them unattractive video contestants outside the immediate area. Californians are so hip that they make their game show appearances seem like inside jokes.

A bird known as the crocodile bird enters a crocodile's mouth and is permitted to pick the sawdust! So Joe Glut's card reads that he's a plumber from Seattle. Well, he was—20 years ago. Right now, Joe's a movie hit player out of work.

Hungarians Fit Communism To Meet Needs

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungarians love the good life. And drop by drop they appear to be wringing a little out of communism.

The 1956 revolution proved the Hungarians couldn't overthrow the system. Some 50,000 Soviet troops still are here, making sure of that.

Stuck with communism, the Hungarians are changing it, twisting it and squeezing it to meet their needs.

Premier Janos Kadar seems to realize he never will be able to make Communists out of the majority of Hungarians. So he is wooing them into cooperation. He has made concession after concession, so that some people say he is Eastern Europe's most popular Red leader.

Hungarians, despite their difficulties, are trying to make Budapest central Europe's most glittering city again.

Shops in Vaci Utca, once its most fashionable street, today display a finer dash of style than you'll see anywhere in Eastern Europe.

Tailors, hairdressers and shoemakers, many of them private craftsmen, turn out products quite comparable with the best in the West.

Beauticians, working for the state, travel to Paris to study the latest techniques. Fine nylon underwear is imported from Italy for Hungarian ladies who can pay the price.

Hungarians pride themselves, too, on their theater, their music, their writers and their intellectuals.

The Communists have let in more Western influences than any other Red regime. There are translations of Arthur Miller, Hemingway, Tennessee Williams, and Britain's John Osborne and C.P. Snow alongside those of the rebellious Russian poet Yevushenko.

Diplomats say that Communist politics are more liberal in Hungary than elsewhere in the Soviet bloc. Hungary still has a one-party system. But 45 per cent of Parliament members are not party members. Town meetings have the right to reject party-proposed candidates for political office and put up substitutes—who have to be acceptable.

In the villages of the great Hungarian plain, stores have good selections of meat, cheeses, bakery items and well packaged frozen foods in new deepfreezers, and more kitchenware, textiles and furniture than before.

For years, Hungary went into debt with investment in heavy industry and unproductive plants. Kadar is changing that and switching to light industries and other products they may sell in Western countries. But 70 per cent of Hungary's trade has to be with the Soviet bloc and Hungary is economically tied to the Soviet Union.

To get production up and try to keep the Hungarians relatively satisfied, Kadar is trying some radical economic experiments. He is giving farmers incentives and fifth-grade Communist party hacks no longer can hold jobs just because of their membership cards.

He is tolerant of big time private operators—the sort of people who would be shot in the Soviet Union—but who can manage to find needed supplies and sell them to the state.

He is tolerant of moonlighting. It goes on in every industry and every profession. "Hungarians always live beyond their means and doing work on the side is how we manage to stay afloat," explained a schoolteacher.

One of the most tolerant steps Kadar has taken has been to ease travel restrictions and let Hungarians go abroad to the West, where their hearts are anyway. More than 500,000 Hungarians received passports last year and 127,000 of these went to the West. Only a few did not return.

"As long as I can get a passport to come in and out, I don't mind coming back," said a university student who drove to England this year.

Charges Are Filed Against Gamble

ROME (UPI) — A lawyer said Monday he has filed "criminal charges" in Rome against Andrei Porumbeanu's estranged American typewriter heiress wife for allegedly abducting their two children.

The former Gamble Benedict, who married Porumbeanu over the objections of her grandmother - guardian, left him last June 17. She has started legal proceedings in New York to end their four-year marriage.

Attorney Giuseppe Bellucci said he lodged the charges with the Rome public prosecutor's office.

The lawyer told newsmen that Mrs. Porumbeanu had kidnapped the children — George, 3, and Grigore, 18 months — "under the cruelest of circumstances."

"We hope to obtain an order from the Italian judge for the restitution of the children and execute the order in the country where the children are," Bellucci said.

The children are believed to be with their 23-year-old mother in the United States.

Now Is Time To Start Getting Ready For School

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., (UPI) — Parents whose children are scheduled to enter Mrs. Marguerite L. Duvall, extension specialist in child development at Pennsylvania State University, said getting ready for school involves both short term action and long term planning.

Physically, a strong, healthy body is the goal, she said. Long range planning for this can include building good habits, such as eating and sleeping, and building muscles and coordination with active play. Immediate things needed include a physical checkup, clothes for school and instruction of children safety precautions.

New Synthetic Graphite Is Termed Important Space Age Development

DALLAS (UPI) — From ordinary pencil lead to space exploration is a contrast showing the importance of graphite to both everyday life and science. But existing graphites were limited in their ability to perform jobs demanded by the high temperatures reached by vehicles hurtling through the atmosphere. So a small group of scientists at Ling-Temco-Vought (LTV) determined to develop a new and better method of making synthetic carbon and graphite.

They have accomplished their objective after five years of work at the Grand Prairie, Tex. plant. LTV has developed a carbon and graphite material described as superior to anything now in existence and has demonstrated it to the industrial public.

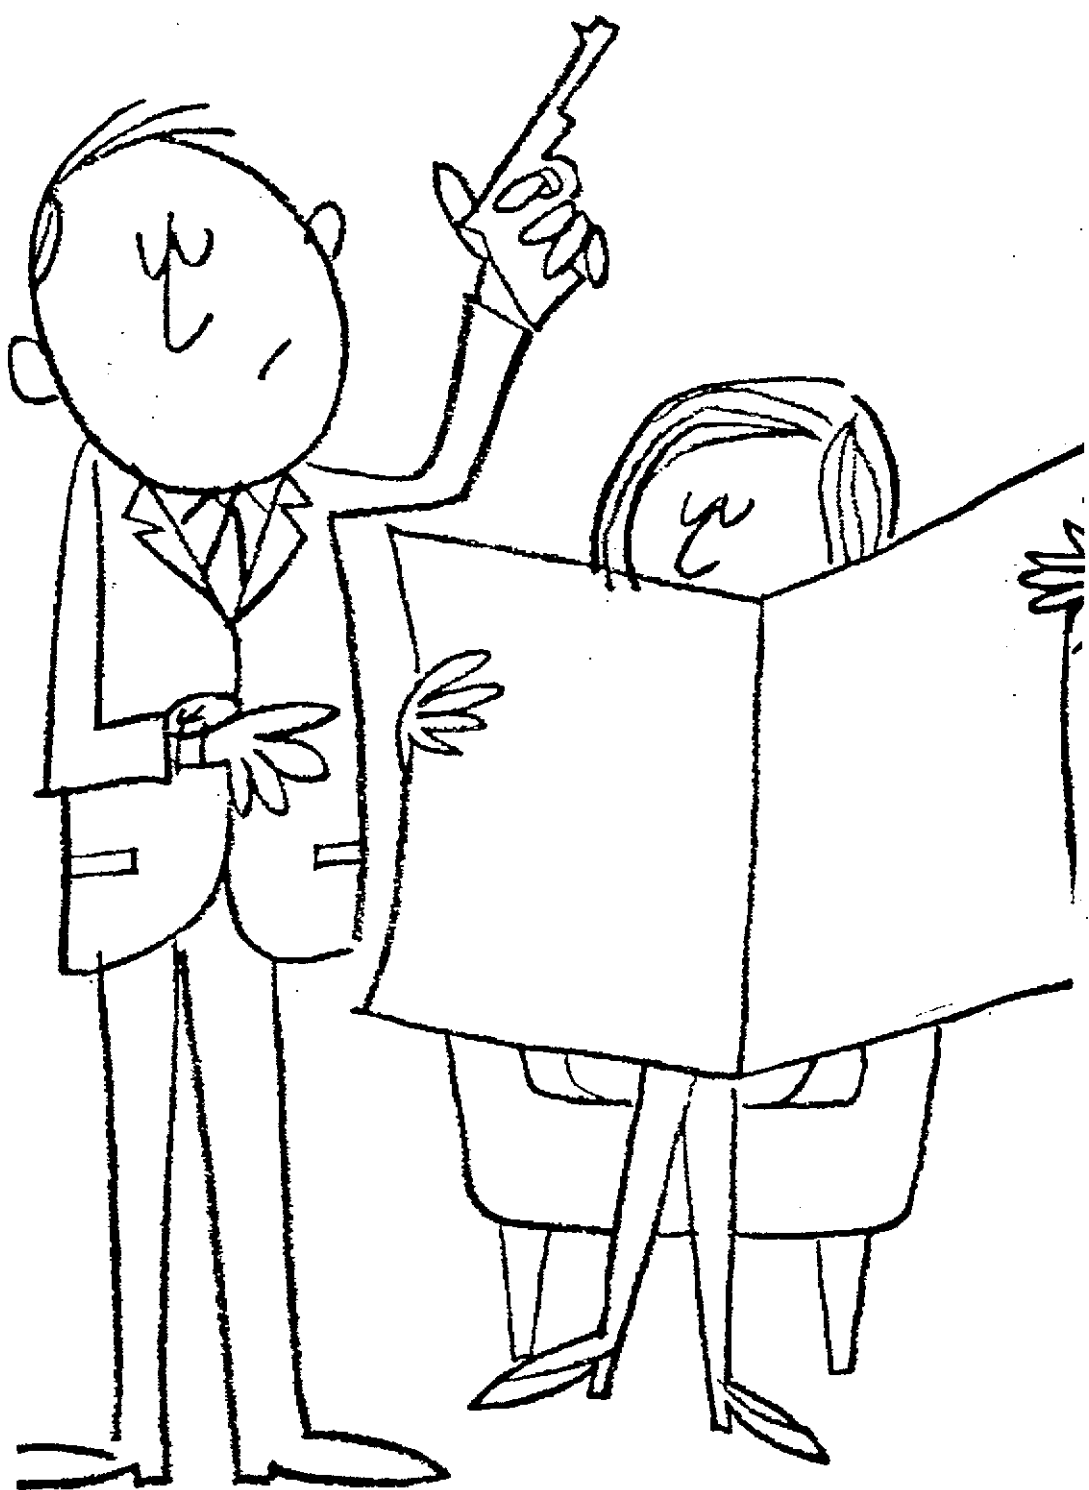

Competitive reasons keep their process a secret. But for

The longest fence in the world is the dingo-proof fence enclosing the main sheep areas of Queensland, Australia. The wire netting fence is six feet high and stretches for 2,437 miles.

the past two years industrial users have been testing the product and today are praising it. Artificial graphite was produced for the first time in 1896, but diamond synthesis was not achieved until 1954. Carbon is widely distributed in nature, an essential part of organic matter, and abundant. Several factors involved in the production of a better graphite product are density, porosity, grain structure, thermal expansion, hardness, electrical resistivity, general strength, purity, radiation stability, oxidation resistance and machinability. In almost every case, the LTV scientists came up with a product that surpassed present graphite products in these categories. They envision use of their graphite breakthrough in such fields as electronic resistors, electrodes, chemical batteries and fuel cells, aerospace nose cones, and nuclear shields, reflectors and fuel elements.

Biologist Believes Sunflower Is Important Source Of Food

By JOHN F. HUSSEY

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—It may not be long before products of the sunflower form an important part of the American diet.

This is the opinion of the Rev. Robert Owens-Howard, a Jesuit biologist, who says the once-rejected sunflower is enjoying a new vogue.

The sunflower, if properly cultivated and efficiently harvested, "is a highly nourishing and potentially great food source," says Father Owens-Howard. And it tastes good, too.

The Jesuit, who has made special studies of the plant, found there are nutritional benefits to be derived from almost every part of the sunflower.

The seed has more protein than soybeans or cottonseed. It also contains vitamin D, calcium, thiamine and niacin. When pressed, the seed yields oil for cooking, margarine and salad. Ground up, it produces flour.

Father Owens-Howard says Americans have chewed the nut-like seed for years without realizing its food value. Only recently have scientists come to know of the plant's potential.

The sunflower has no waste. The stalks can be made into good or processed into paper or fertilizer; the roots of one variety can be used for baking or in salads. There are more than 100 varieties of sunflower plants.

"In a generation or so," Father Owens-Howard said, the plant could be one of the world's most important food crops, especially since it grows almost anywhere the sun can reach it and the temperature does not get too cold."

Actually, the Jesuit says the sunflower is too much of a good thing. It's difficult to harvest commercially because of its size, often more than six feet tall.

At present there is no mechanical equipment to harvest it. He thinks industry could develop new and adequate equipment or scientists could develop a smaller plant.

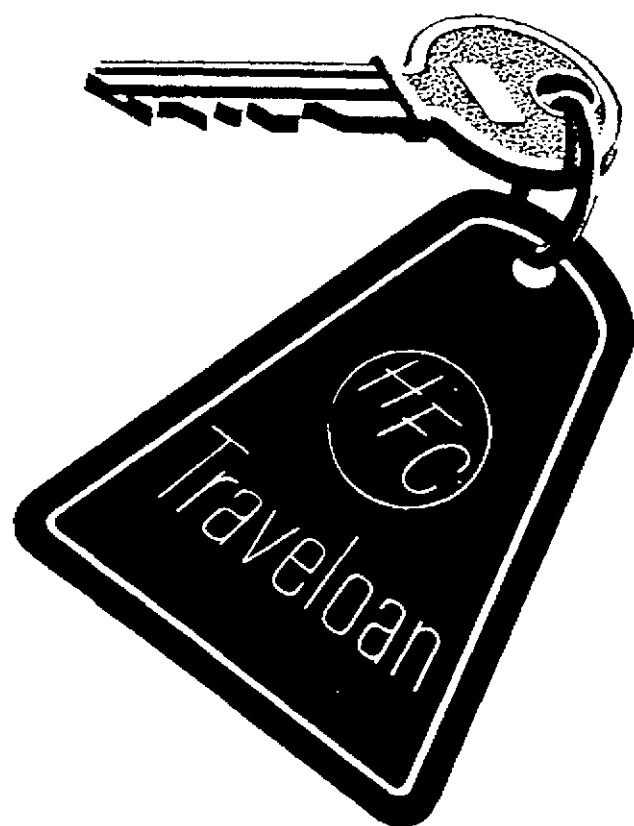

"The time may come," he says, "when the United States can offer a handful of sunflower seed to an impoverished country rather than millions of U.S. dollars."

SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1776.

[Num. 228.]

In CONGRESS, July 4, 1776. A Declaration by the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled.

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, That all men are created equal; that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former system of government. The history of the present King of Great-Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inalienable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us; For depriving them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighbouring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments;

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens taken captive on the high seas to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us.

We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here: We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence.

They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in GENERAL CONGRESS assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connexion between them and the State of Great-Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that, as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

Signed by ORDER and in BEHALF of CONGRESS,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Attest: CHARLES THOMSON, Sec.

Answer: 10 advertisers

Did you think the Declaration of Independence was carried around on parchment scrolls and read in town squares by little old men wearing funny hats, white pony tails and ringing little bells?

Not so. The historic news was spread by papers like The Pennsylvania Evening Post (above). And these papers were supported by advertisers like Hynes Taylor, upholsterer, and David Pancoast, realtor (also above).

The same holds true today.

Without advertisers, the paper you're reading right now might cost one dollar or more.

(At those prices some people would much rather wait for the little old man ringing the little bell.)

What you paid for this newspaper today just barely covers the cost of the paper it's printed on.

Everything else—the entire cost of world-wide and local news gathering, pictures, features, the actual engravings, typesetting and printing—has to be borne by local and national advertising.

It's the same with magazines, radio and television.

Perhaps we wouldn't be in the dark ages without advertising, but we'd certainly be in the dark.

Of course there's always the possibility that the government would subsidize newspapers, magazines, radio and television.

But in that case, we could hardly expect members of the government to use these media to publicize their own shortcomings or mistakes.

It is apparent, then, that advertising is intimately connected with freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

Because there are advertisers who want to tell you the difference between products, there are newspapers (and radio and television) to tell you the difference between political candidates.

There are some countries, you know, where they don't have a choice between political candidates.

Or products.

Pets Need Special Care In Hot, Humid Weather

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pets, like people, need to beat the summer heat.

And it's up to their owners to help them. Tips on summer care for pets comes from the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA). Included are those for care of dogs, cats, fish, turtles and birds.

Col. Edmond M. Rowan, director of ASPCA's humane work division, said that dogs, for example, should have less food in hot weather. For cats, less milk, and for canaries and parakeets, no oats or cold liver oil in their diets. For all, plenty of fresh water. Rowan said the reasoning for this is the same as for humans. Animals, too, fare better when they eat less. He recommends swimming for dogs. But if a river or pool is not available, all, Queensland, Australia. It is then a sponge bath or hose spray helps on extremely hot days.

He said vigorous combing and brushing of a dog will get rid of loose fur shed during summer months. Daily grooming, with inspection for ticks, fleas and other parasites should be a habit.

Cats too need their coats brushed frequently with parasite inspection a must.

If the family pet goes along on a motor trip, never leave it in a parked car with all windows closed. Two windows can be left open a couple of inches.

For both cats and dogs, peace and quiet are good rules, said Rowan. Sleeping in cool, ventilated rooms is as necessary for pets as for humans.

The world's deepest water well is believed to be the Springleigh swimming for dogs. But if a river or pool is not available, all, Queensland, Australia. It is then a sponge bath or hose

Take 'Em Off

NEW YORK (UPI)—People who wear sunglasses for night driving are ignoring safety, an automobile leasing expert warns.

Contrary to a popular belief, drivers who wear sunglasses during the day and leave them on after darkness falls are risking an accident, says George A. Culp, vice president of C. I. T. Service Leasing Corporation. Sunglasses do reduce the glare of headlights, but at the same time they seriously impair the driver's vision, he said.

After Needling LBJ For Three Years Republicans Find Themselves In Same Boat With Two Platforms

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After needling President Johnson for three years for running on two platforms, the GOP now finds that it, too, can have more than one platform in the family.

A proposal that New York Republicans run on their own platform comes as a reaction to the final adoption of a GOP national platform cut to fit the presidential nominee, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

Sens. Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob K. Javits, both of New York, want the GOP in their state to write its own platform. Both were on the losing side at San Francisco in the contest to prevent Goldwater's nomination and to rewrite the Goldwater-flavored platform.

The Keating-Javits proposal was not quite parallel to Johnson's position in 1960 because he was running for re-election as senator from Texas while he was the vice presidential nominee on the national Democratic platform.

Republicans like to point out that the Texas Democratic platform did not jibe with the national platform, a liberal document, on such issues as civil rights and federal aid for education. Texas gave its votes to Johnson for both the Senate seat and the vice presidency.

Independence Not Unusual

It is not unusual for a state party organization or candidates to take a stance independent of the national party. Southern Democrats have regularly repudiated the civil rights plank of the national platform and some of them have shunned the presidential nominee while keeping their membership in good standing in the Democratic party.

In 1948, Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., endorsed President Truman but disavowed platform planks on civil rights and repeal of the Taft-Hartley law. He went back to one of the William Jennings Bryan campaigns for a precedent and found that Carter Glass had stayed in the party while repudiating the free silver plank in the platform.

A New York Republican platform more liberal than the national document would underscore the continuing division inside the party. But while Republicans in other Eastern states share the Keating-Javits discomfort with Goldwater, Republicans doubt that the GOP in other states will match the independence threatened by the New Yorkers.

Surprised By Goldwater

When Goldwater gave his acceptance speech at San Francisco Cow Palace, he startled some of his listeners by giving his Republican critics not even a smell of an olive branch.

He not only affronted them by reopening wounds caused by the platform dispute over extremism, but he seemed to be encouraging Republican dissenters to sit out the campaign. "Those who do not care for our cause, we do not expect to enter our ranks in any case," he said.

Goldwater sounded no call then for closing ranks although he has been a dedicated apostle of unity in his tireless campaigning for the GOP over the past 12 years.

He did indicate he was prepared to sound the unity note when he held an impromptu news conference at Chicago Monday. He said then he hoped to get former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania into a leadership conference to talk about working together for the autumn campaign.

Annual Wild Pony Roundup On Assateague Island Features "Shore Cowboys"

By DEANE and DAVID HELLER
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

THE FUN and excitement of an old-fashioned roundup of real-life wild ponies may be old hat in the Far West — but down East it's news. Today, thanks to the engineering marvels and progress of modern bridges, tunnels, ferries and good roads, the only wild pony roundup on the East Coast of the United States is accessible to the huge motoring public of both the Northeast and the South.

The wild ponies of Assateague Island on Virginia's remote Eastern Shore are rounded up annually and auctioned off in a colorful ceremony held the last week of July.

Now because of the soon to be completed Cape May, N.J., ferry service of Lewes, Del., which opens up the entire DelMarVa Peninsula (Delaware - Maryland - Virginia) and because of the Chesapeake Bay Tunnel Bridge to the south that links the sovereign state of Virginia to its across-the-bay Eastern Shore, the ceremony need not be confined to its previous 200 to 300-mile local area radius audience of past years.

Today just about anybody on a touring vacation at the Atlantic Ocean beaches can enjoy this great spectator event where Eastern Shore "cowboys" roundup the shaggy, but handsome, wild ponies of the outer wild island of Assateague. The "cowboys" maneuver both with boats and horses in the fascinating roundup.

THE WILD PONIES who run an average of 13 to 14 hands high in pony parlance are the end product of a herd of Spanish mustang horses wrecked off the completed Cape May, N.J., ferry coast of the island in the 16th service of Lewes, Del., which opens up the entire DelMarVa Peninsula (Delaware - Maryland - Virginia) and because of the Chesapeake Bay Tunnel Bridge to the south that links the sovereign state of Virginia to its across-the-bay Eastern Shore, the ceremony need not be confined to its previous 200 to 300-mile local area radius audience of past years.

a great portion of Assateague Island, THE LITTLE BRIDGE, and are born each year and only these

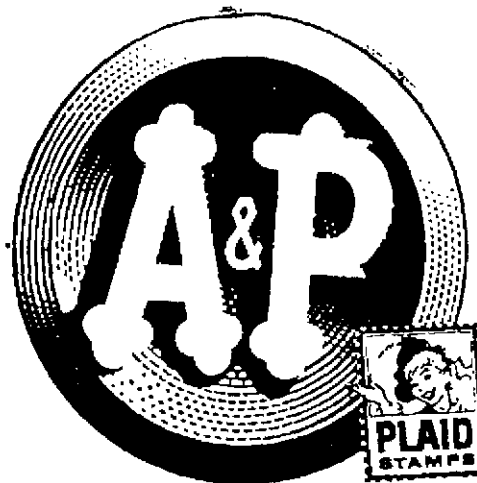

The ponies share the island to the wide, wind-swept, sandy beaches of the Atlantic Ocean, estimated to number about 1,500, are a real travel bargain. The cost is only $1.25, no matter how many ponies you want to see. As well as with innumerable species of wild birds, Assateague Island is a superb beach. Facilities are available for clothes changing, a National Fish and Wildlife Refuge. While open to tourists during the day, it reverts to its primitive state of wild habitation only at night. Visitors are not allowed on the island after dark.

The roundup, sponsored annually to benefit the neighboring Chincoteague Island Fire Department, which actually owns the ponies, was of special interest this year. A small bridge, the Chincoteague-Assateague Bridge, was opened on Tuesday, July 29, by the Chincoteague and Assateague Beach Authority, making it possible for visitors to drive their cars onto Assateague Island itself and park and watch the roundup.

Immunization Check Urged

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Maryland Health Department official has voiced concern over widespread failure of parents to have their babies immunized against disease.

Dr. John H. Janney said many parents neglect to have their new-born given shots against diphtheria, polio, whooping cough, tetanus and smallpox.

He also reminded adults that shots for tetanus and smallpox vaccinations should be repeated every five years.

Mighty Jeep

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Jeep in the Smithsonian Institution's old Arts and Industries Building here represents the 634,569th made between Pearl Harbor and VE-Day.

World War II correspondent Ernie Pyle once wrote: "Good Lord, I don't think we could continue the war without the Jeep."

Tuning Up

CHICAGO (UPI)—School bands and orchestras have doubled in numbers since World War II, reports the American Music Conference.

It says that as of last fall, elementary, junior high and high schools in the United States had more than 71,000 instrumental music organizations. The total broke down into 15,000 orchestras, 49,000 bands and 7,000 "stage" bands (high school only).

Anderson Cites Ruling On County Fiscal Data Publication

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners is required only to publish quarterly financial reports.

This was the opinion of County Attorney Fred H. Anderson in a mailed reply to John Martin, Frostburg, president of the Allegany County Citizens Protective Association.

Martin had requested information on publishing detailed, minute and accurate financial statements of the county.

Mr. Anderson in his reply stated: "Article 1, Section 13, of the Maryland Code states, 'Where the public general law and the public local law of any county, city, town or district are in conflict, the public local laws shall prevail.'"

"Therefore, the public local law of Allegany County providing for quarterly publication of income and expenditures of the county prevails over Section 240, Article 25 of the Code, and it is not necessary that Allegany County comply with said state law."

Coincident with Mr. Anderson's statement, the county commissioners yesterday received the report of James W. Bishop, county treasurer, for the quarter ending June 30. The quarterly report will be published in both local newspapers on a motion by the commissioners.

Receipts from a recent bond sale totaled $4,275,000; matured investments, $1,000,000; interest on investments, $21,750; interest on bonds sold, $10,022.18; the state of Maryland, $463,970.65 in shared revenues; Francis G. Philpot, county tax collector, submitted $120,473.25; other taxes and licenses, $139,810.72; institutional care, $38,156.99; the Board of Education submitted $96,011.58 for debt service, magistrates, courts, health, $33,706.25 retirement of miscellaneous income was $23,248.67.

Total receipts were $6,196,779.09. Disbursements included $177.59 in insolvencies and erroneous assessments, $1,001,000 to the Board of Education for school construction, $662.25, accounts receivable refund, $12,000 to the LaVale Sanitary Commission, $50 for animal welfare, $259 for dog licenses, $200,000 in proceeds from bonds sold by the LaVale Sanitary Commission, $500,000 from proceeds for the Memorial Hospital bonds, $22,821 state receipts allocated to municipalities, $14,958.98 for jails, $149,890.09 for general government, $13,934.54 public safety and protection, $107,088.08 for public welfare, $157,568.25 for public highways, $97,190.73 for hospitals, $36,622.78 for insurance and retirement, $2,871.81 sanitary and public welfare, $863,111.40 for public schools, $27,706.02 public and conservation of as of June 30 was $1,789,371.57. Mr. Philpot listed outstanding tax for a grand total of $6,576,151.10. es of $432,972.37.

Total disbursements were $4,786,779.53 and the cash balance $1,410,511.57 for miscellaneous items, $1,495,986.67 placed in U. S. Treasury bills and certificates of deposit and $7,867.58 for Planning and Zoning.

Letters Aired On Both Sides Of Zoning Law

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received letters both in favor and against the proposed permanent zoning ordinance.

R. G. Robeson, president of the Home Builders Association of Western Maryland, states that the board of directors of the association has reviewed and studied the proposed zoning ordinance at several meetings.

He stated the group desires a workable ordinance to meet the needs of the county. It is essential for the betterment and future progress of the county and should have been in effect 50 years ago, the letter stated.

"We are basically in favor of the ordinance but in looking over the ordinance in general we are not 100 per cent in favor, but we sincerely hope zoning will become part of the county," Mr. Robeson stated.

Another letter in favor was from Mrs. Ronald Roshier, 302 Sunset Drive, who stated that the commission is to be commended for holding a second public hearing today at 9 a. m. at the Court House as "we attended the last one at Allegany High School and were shocked at the attitude of many present."

"It is the fervent hope of many of us you will have the courage both politically and morally to enact zoning without further delay or added expense to the county."

A petition signed by 11 persons stating that the Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company was against zoning and asked for a referendum was received by the commissioners.

John Carder, Oldtown, presented a letter stating he was against zoning and questioned whether the proposal was constitutional.

Crossing Blocked

A "low-boy" trailer owned by the Franklin Glass Company, Franklin, Pa., got stuck on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crossing at Valley Street shortly after 11:30 a. m. yesterday.

Traffic was tied up for about 12 minutes before the truck was towed by a wrecker, City Police said.

Girl Injured In Collision

Eleven-year-old Debra Hussong, 933 Kent Avenue, was hospitalized in "fair" condition after the car in which she was riding struck another vehicle on Dorn Avenue Monday night.

Debra, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hussong, sustained head injuries when the sudden stop threw her against the windshield, according to Sacred Heart Hospital attaches.

Officer Frank Valentine who investigated the two-car collision, said that a sister, Virginia L. Hussong, 17, was going south on Dorn Avenue, James Edward Cramer, 24, of RD 2, Baltimore Pike, hit the Hussong car when he pulled out of his northbound lane to pass a parked car.

No one else—including one passenger in the Cramer car and three in the Hussong car—was even slightly injured.

County Invests Tax Monies

Commissioner Robert Little Ebert reported at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that a total of $1,900,000 of tax monies will be invested by the county in short-term government bills and certificates of deposit in various banks.

For a four-month period a total of $300,000 in U. S. Treasury Bills will be deposited and for a five-month period the county will deposit $800,000 in U. S. Treasury Bills.

A total of $800,000 will be placed in certificates of deposit at three per cent interest in the following banks, $350,000 in each of the Liberty Trust Company and First Second National Bank and Trust Company and $50,000 in each of the Fidelity Bank of Frostburg and Frostburg National Bank.

Mr. Ebert also reported that Maxine O'Neal, Zihlman, will replace Royal Miller as a temporary worker in the county tax office as Mr. Miller has accepted a teaching position in the county school system.

Pa. Worker Hospitalized In Accident

Gary Beachy, 20, Springs, Pa., was transferred to Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh late yesterday and underwent surgery for a fractured skull after being injured when a rim blew off a truck tire which he was repairing.

Attaches at the Pittsburgh hospital said today that he was in "fair" condition.

Mr. Beachy was working on the tire at the Rodamer Concrete Products Plant, Springs, with Lloyd Younk, 28, Monday morning when the accident occurred. Both were taken immediately to Meyersdale Community Hospital.

Younk, who is listed in "fair" condition was expected to be released.

The operation on young Beachy at Mercy Hospital was to repair a skull fracture and sinus damage and to do some plastic surgery. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beachy, Springs.

City Insurance Bid Accepted

The Mayor and Council held a brief routine session yesterday. Among its transactions were acceptance of the bid of the Holshu, Blaul, Welch Agency for fleet insurance for city vehicles in the amount of $2,390.30.

Council appointed Albert C. Boggs as probationary police patrolman effective July 21.

A report by James W. Brown, acting meter inspector, showed receipts the week of July 19 amounted to $890 compared to $824 the week of July 12, an increase of $66.

Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill reported on bidding for city-owned lots and council accepted his recommendations that property in the 700 block of Fayette Street be sold to Chris Lockard who bid a high of $350; and property on Hill Street to Charles Oglebay who bid $300. The latter was accepted with the understanding that the property be cleared and placed in suitable condition.

Eastern Europe Opens Up A Bit

"A trip to Rumania is extremely attractive and convenient," intones the Carpati National Travel Office in a colorful travel folder aimed to lure American tourists to that country's Black Sea coast this summer. The campaign is indicative of the way in which Communist East Europe hopes to attract Western tourists and harvest the trail of dollars they leave behind. Even East Germany is advertising "immediate visas" for Westerners and plugging "all-inclusive cheap trips" to East German spas.

About 30,000 Americans visited countries behind the Iron Curtain last year, including the Soviet Union. This compared with some 25,000 in 1962 and 20,000 in 1961, according to rough Commerce Department estimates. A modest enough influx to be sure, but despite their small numbers Americans are no longer curiosity pieces in the satellite states.

The Red governments are competing for trade with all the vigor of a carnival pitchman. Rumania, for example, promises American tourists a "preferential rate of exchange awarding a premium of 150 per cent, that is, $1 equals 15 lei." Deluxe room with private bath, and full board, costs only $11 a day. One annoyance remains: Itinerary must be chosen well in advance, and must be closely observed under threat of visa cancellation.

For world travellers who may be jaded from visits to such well-known Soviet cities as Moscow and Leningrad, the official U.S.S.R. travel agency, Intourist, this year offers tours to such exotic spots as Alushta, Klin, Ordzhonikidze, Pskov, Sukhumi, Tallin, Tbilisi, and Tashkent. Such readiness to accept outsiders would have been unthinkable a few years ago. Now the freer travel throughout Eastern Europe is the most obvious manifestation of an easing in the cheerless cold war.

View From San Fernando Valley

TARZANA, Calif.—The Claytons, which is not their name but close enough to it, are a middle-aged couple whose home for years has been in the San Fernando Valley which is now part of greater Los Angeles. They are reasonable people who are for the conservative cause primarily because they don't like a political dispensation that forces young enterprisers to sell their businesses to big corporations in order to save at least some of the capital they have created for their families. The Claytons live in a tasteful house in Tarzana made by remodeling and adding to an old garage. The property once belonged to Edgar Rice Burroughs, whose novels about an English lord who grew up among the apes are probably more widely known around the world than the plays of Shakespeare. The fictitious name of the apes gave his name to Tarzana, but the tale is that Burroughs himself lost his extensive San Fernando valley acreage to a bank in some unlucky shuffle, and the Claytons, who take Burroughs's side of a controversial story, are quick to take that capitalism has had a few shoddy phases.

Nevertheless, despite their reservations about accepting everything said by the "Far Right," the Claytons labored mightily in the primary that put Barry Goldwater over the hump in the run for the Republican presidential nomination. They claim they are rather typical of the Los Angeles and Orange County voters who saved the day for Barry in the nip-and-tuck hours of June 2. "I worked at local headquarters for Goldwater," says Mrs. Clayton, "and I can tell you who put him over. It wasn't any bunch of kooks or fanatic Far Rightists. The real power in the fight was provided by young married couples in the middle-income brackets who hope to keep something of what they make for their families. They are tired of having their property taxes doubled and redoubled every few years. They are tired of being bothered by Washington."

In casual talk not related to immediate political concerns, Mrs. Clayton inadvertently defined herself as a distinctly nonideological conservative. She holds to former FCC man Newton Minow's opinion that commercial TV is a vast wasteland, and wonders whether government-owned broadcasting companies might not be the answer. She thinks Senator Ken Keating of New York State, who has reservations about supporting Goldwater, has a right to his opinions, and she didn't like the effort of reporters to pin Keating down to some controversial statement.

Mrs. Clayton's husband disagrees with her about government broadcasting. But he, too, defined himself as something considerably less than a political zealot. At the San Francisco convention he had read Phyllis Schlafly's influential pamphlet, "A Choice, Not an Echo," which paints a rather lurid picture of twenty years of conspiracy by the "eastern liberal Establishment" to control the Republican Party. The pamphlet seemed a bit crude to Mr. Clayton, who criticized it as being "oversimplified."

Mr. Clayton used to be in the aviation business; he trained pilots, and he once recruited personnel for Chennault's Flying Tigers in China. He and his wife lived in the Orient for many years — and one of the reasons they are for Goldwater is that they don't want to see the U. S. meshed in the sort of interferences with personal and economic liberty that have gained such ground in the rest of the world. They are not against civil rights, but Mr. Clayton, who is currently in the real estate business, thinks people should have a right to sell and rent property to whom they please. Interference with this right, he says, can be enormously destructive of hard-earned values.

Coming back to the Los Angeles and Orange County vote that spelled all the difference in the Goldwater campaign, the Claytons betrayed their only political bias in dismissing the kook theory of Goldwater victory. On the basis of the young married doorbell ringers who had a primary-day headquarters, Mrs. Clayton has a strong feeling for the theme of "average folks." But it is the young average folks who did the work, she said — not the "old Republicans, who spend all their time sitting in armchairs and complaining."

European Officials, Papers Meddle In U.S. Affairs

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Many high officials and several newspapers in Europe have begun to meddle in American political affairs as they take sides publicly on the attitude of the presidential candidates on questions of American foreign policy. But this is only a smokescreen to divert attention from the tragic manner in which Great Britain and France have failed to back up the United States in Southeast Asia.

Scores of American boys are being killed and the lives of many thousands of United States troops in Vietnam are being endangered by Communist guerrillas who are being supplied arms and ammunition by Red China. Yet the Peiping government has recently been recognized by General de Gaulle of France, while the British continue their diplomatic relations with the Communist Chinese. Instead of joining in a trade and diplomatic embargo, the European governments are seeking increased trade with Red China, which inevitably will help to bolster its economy.

In contrast, the Organization of American States in this hemisphere has just decided on diplomatic and economic measures designed to isolate Communist Cuba. This is the kind of international co-operation which could change the whole course of the "cold war" if the European governments wholeheartedly joined such an effort in Asia.

The European critics are mistaken in their widely publicized fear that the political campaign in this country is related in any important way to possible changes in American foreign policy. There is no essential difference between the viewpoint of the Republican and Democratic parties in their earnest desire to see peace maintained with all nations. But there is discussion in this country as to whether the European type of appeasement—which helped bring on World War II—might, if applied today, result in another world conflict. Senator Goldwater, for example, insists that firmness and resoluteness are vital and that a craven attitude can bring on war. President Johnson has again and again expressed the same sentiment.

But the Europeans are concerned lest the United States apply some of its firmness in Europe by insisting that Great Britain and France join an economic and diplomatic embargo not only against Cuba but also against Red China.

A United Press International dispatch from Saigon has just revealed the sad story of how American military forces in South Vietnam are being handicapped by the Red Chinese. It reads as follows:

"Communist China has stepped up its military aid to the Viet Cong guerrillas in embattled South Vietnam, according to a government white paper just published here. The 181-page report, entitled 'Communist aggression against the Republic of Vietnam,' said, 'it is particularly the aid from Communist China that has daily increased the murderous violence of this aggression.' "The report said: 'evidence exists that considerable sums of money, large amounts of arms and equipment of every kind are sent secretly from the Communist countries to South Vietnam. . . . The Peiping government gives tangible proof of its aggressive policies by supplying increasing quantities of the latest type of heavy arms made in Communist China.'"

The report lists types of Red Chinese weapons captured in PRECEDENCE — When Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor resigned as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to become U. S. ambassador to Viet Nam, he received a citation describing him as the "principal military adviser" of the President and secretary of Defense.

To some highly placed military figures in the Pentagon that designation is viewed as a danger to the growing power of the chairman at the expense of the other members of the joint chiefs. It isn't only the phrase that bothers them.

Taylor had, in fact, become the principal military adviser to President Johnson despite existence in the law of a provision that the joint chiefs as a group should serve in that capacity.

These objectors are concerned that the practice of relying on the chairman will develop a pattern under which the joint chiefs will degenerate to lesser and lesser influence while that of the chairman increases.

Under such a development, there could emerge over a period of time a single chief of staff for all the armed services—the kind of structure that existed in the Nazi military system of Germany and which is credited for some of the basically unsound planning decisions that contributed to that regime's downfall.

Curvature Of Spine Develops In Early Years

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Milwaukee is famous for its art center and its beer but it has another claim to fame—the Milwaukee brace. This device is used as a corrective support in spinal curvatures. Because it is adjustable, the patient can remain comfortable while sitting, lying down, standing, or walking.

Curvature of the spine (scoliosis) to the left or right is a common deformity. It usually develops during the early years of growth and often is recognized before the age of 14. Boys are more likely to be affected during the early school years but the situation changes in adolescence when three to five times more girls than boys develop it. The cure may be shaped like a C or an S.

When poor posture is responsible the outlook is good because the vertebrae and structures otherwise are normal. Other children are born with defective vertebrae or paralysis of the muscles of the trunk on one side. The latter destroys the normal balance of the supporting muscles.

The back muscles may be weakened or paralyzed by polio or other neurological afflictions. Spinal curvature occurs when one leg is shorter than the other. Injury is another possible origin of curvature.

Despite the cause, the crookedness may escape detection for years because it comes on slowly and seldom produces distress. The left shoulder may be higher than the right or a hip or shoulder blade may be prominent. The defect may be noted first when a parent sees the child in a bathing suit or a young girl is being fitted for a dress. Now and then fatigue and backache provide clues.

Mild curvature may correct itself with additional rest during the day, provided the youngster makes an effort to sit and stand erect. Exercises keep the spine flexible and improve the balance of the trunk muscles. They must be done faithfully over a long period. Progressive curvature calls for more specialized care, involving traction or the use of corrective plaster jackets and braces. Approximately 5 per cent are severe enough to require surgery.

LBJ Drafted Joint Communiqué Before Meeting With Goldwater

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Here is the inside story of what happened when Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican nominee for President, called on the man whom only one week before he had called a faker and a phony.

Both men were polite and cordial. However, President Johnson took the initiative from the start and didn't relinquish it. Without saying so, he made it fairly clear that he was calling the shots in the coming campaign.

Goldwater didn't refer to the bitter words he had hurled at the President at San Francisco, but it was fairly clear that he was not too happy about holding the interview. He came in the south-west White House door, a side-door where the press is not permitted to stand watch, 23 minutes early and waited patiently for the time of his appointment to arrive.

After the brief 16 minute meeting, Goldwater ducked down the backstairs and scooted out the side-door while a crowd of newsmen and TV cameras were waiting for him to come out the front door.

The President opened up the conference by outlining what his administration had already done to head off violence over civil rights. He ticked off five separate items: The conference with business leaders to secure compliance; the conference with labor leaders to secure acceptance, the telegrams which President George Meany of the AFL-CIO had sent to union leaders at the White House suggestion to get compliance and acceptance; the co-operation worked out with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce; and finally the work of civil rights adviser Leroy Collins, former Governor of Florida and Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, former Governor of North Carolina, with local southern communities.

Hello And Good-Bye

Johnson then told Goldwater what he had said at his press conference one hour earlier, that no important issue could escape discussion during a Presidential election.

"I heard what you had to say," replied the Republican candidate, "and I feel the same way."

He added that he didn't want to be in the position of inciting any trouble.

The President then handed the Senator from Arizona a joint communiqué which he had drafted in advance. It was only 38 words long and stated that the President had reviewed the steps taken to prevent the incitement of racial tensions, that Sen. Goldwater had expressed his view that racial tensions should be avoided, and that both agreed on this position.

Goldwater read over the statement, gave his approval, shook hands, and departed by the side-door—all in 16 minutes.

One high official later described the talk as "cordial and limited." The latter word was an understatement.

More Race Riots?

Racial trouble in Southern California is predicted by Rep. Gus Hawkins D-Calif., if California repeals the Rumford Act which bans housing discrimination.

Hawkins is the first Negro elected to Congress west of the Mississippi River. Slender, quiet-spoken, he is the opposite of handsome, fast-talking Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem, who is a gifted orator, an emotional Baptist preacher, and an inveterate junkie. Hawkins talked dispassionately about the upcoming California vote over repealing the Rumford Act which bans any racial discrimination in buying, selling, or renting houses.

It's a battle which finds the California Real Estate Association and James Francis Cardinal McIntyre plus the Goldwaterites all on one side; while younger priests of the Catholic Church, the Negroes, and Gov. Pat Brown are on the other.

The outcome may well determine whether California goes for Goldwater in November. It will also decide, according to Congressman Hawkins, whether Southern California bursts into racial riots.

Hawkins is a moderate who urges members of his race to give the new civil rights law time to have some effect. He favors the moderate tactics of the NAACP.

"But if the Rumford Act is repealed," said the first Negro Congressman from the west, "more militant methods will be in order. It will encourage more irresponsible leadership. Those of us who have tried, may not be able to prevent those who want to take the racial crisis into the streets."

"I hope and pray that Southern California will not see any incidents like those in Harlem. I don't think Los Angeles will become a rumbling cauldron like Upper Manhattan. Its living conditions are not so dense and employment is better; so it lacks some of the ingredients which could bring it to a full boil."

"Nevertheless, a victory for Proposition 13," said Hawkins, meaning repeal of the Rumford Act, "would tremendously increase the possibility of trouble."

Hawkins believes that the California Real Estate Association is dominated by the right wing and members of the John Birch Society, but does not represent the majority of realtors. The majority, he believes, oppose repeal of the Rumford Racial Equality Act.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The day after Senator Barry Goldwater was nominated for the office of President of the United States, I began to receive phone calls. There was a monotonous similarity to them: "Goldwater is going to wreck the nation. You have a syndicated column. Tell the people the lowdown about this — before it's too late."

Not one caller asked me to say a kind word about the Senator from Arizona. This led to a secondary thought. I do not know of any American in public office who has been vilified as Goldwater has been—and will be. At least a third of his party despises or fears him. Some have thought seriously of hopping the fence this year and supporting President Lyndon Johnson.

Why? No man fought harder for the nomination. Rockefeller tried to win it with money. Scranton used school-boy shyness and a dance step. He also tried to run with his winsome family. Romney couldn't control his own legislation. Lodge sat it out in Vietnam until count-down time. Nixon waited in the wings to be invited.

Only Barry Goldwater fought—not for voters—but for convention delegates. He got them, and many cannot forgive him for it. The Senator does not have a winning personality. He's a martinet at home and among his aides. There is a snarl in his smile. But he isn't aiming at the title of Mr. America, he just wants to be President.

Those who phoned me must be phoning others. In my case, they have the wrong man. I'm an awkward hatchman. I'd prefer to boost than to knock. Besides, I must respect any man who is the choice of either of the two major political parties. Millions of people must endorse him, or else he would not be up there carrying the banner. Conventions do not try to nominate losers.

Staid institutions find it easy to dislike the senator. The morning after the nomination, I would suggest that the big news was Goldwater's goal. The city edition of the New York Times went to press before the actual nomination, and yet the second line of their triple-bank page one headline was: "He Calls Johnson 'Biggest Faker in U. S.' " The Times is not a sensational newspaper. And I submit that the intemperate reference to the President was worth no more than a story at the bottom of page one.

It is unfortunate that Goldwater is saddled with iron-clad opinions, and has the reaction time of a rattlesnake with a toothache. He has coiled and struck many times before, and in spite of his pledge to stick to issues, and not personalities, I feel certain that this character defect will get him into more trouble as the campaign gets warmer.

Basically, he is a counter-puncher. He waits for the opposite to strike and then brings a haymaker up from the floor. Sadly, he often misses. His statements on missiles versus manned bombers alienated much of the military, his natural allies because Goldwater is a major general in the Air Force Reserve.

His advice to Henry Cabot Lodge to remain in Vietnam and stay out of party politics was another reactive impulse.

His statement, when someone suggested that Milton Eisenhower would make a good President: "The country cannot stand another Eisenhower" was an additional slip of a loose tongue. It is possible to be a good conservative in America, and an efficient President, without permitting oneself to be baited by every fool with a microphone or a pencil and pad.

I'm sure that you have read the editorials since the convention. The wounds were deep and they cannot be healed by a Band-Aid unless it is placed on Goldwater's mouth. When he is intemperate, and vituperative, he is unconsciously working for Lyndon Johnson, racking up the votes of people who are on the fence. When he discusses the serious matters, foreign affairs, foreign aid, NATO and the United Nations, he displays uncommon sense.

My point is not political. It is that a personality flaw can cost votes. Richard Nixon was not kidding the morning after he lost the election to Gov. Pat Brown by a scant nose. He told the press that they would no longer have him to kick around. It was a costly tantrum because, whether true or not, it showed Nixon up as a thin-skinned candidate. Nor was it the first time that he blamed the press — which, with t.v. is now the fourth arm of government — and the newspapers shredded Nixon with a thousand small cuts.

Lyndon Johnson was afraid to face the press when he assumed the office of President. He knew that a slip of the tongue, a miscalculated phrase, could make him look like a boob. Since then, he has tried off-the-cuff press conferences, and he finds that he enjoys the give-and-take of questions and answers. His confidence has soared.

If we are going to have a campaign worthy of the name, Senator Goldwater is going to have to water some of his iron opinions with gold. As almost everybody knows, I'm an independent Democrat — that is, a Democrat who can pull voting levers with his left hand as well as his right—but I sure like to see a close campaign. A real squeaker.

One thing can be said for Goldwater: Whatever he has achieved so far he has done almost alone.

The very ancient Romans, according to some historians, invented this business of political campaign slogans. Something like "Let's Rule With Romulus!" or "Vote Right With Remus!"

W. Va. Bar Association Airs Plans To Provide Indigents With Counsel

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Kanawha County prosecutor Charles M. Walker has been appointed state chairman of the American Bar Association committee on defense of indigent persons accused of crime.

The state committee plans to promote changes in West Virginia procedures for appointment and payment of counsel for indigent persons charged with crimes.

Some suggestions explored for defense of indigent persons have been payment of attorneys on an hourly basis and a public defender system.

Attorneys now are appointed by West Virginia judges and are paid only $40 in misdemeanor cases and $100 in felony cases. Federal judges appoint lawyers to serve as counsel in district courts and those attorneys serve without pay.

GOBER, Tex. (UPI)—Homer Amlin got an unexpected bonus when he bought an old house—lock, stock and aged whisky bottle. A pink bottle tucked in the corner of an old trunk was labeled "H. S. Barton Old Bourbon."

So far no visitor has accepted Amlin's offer of a drink.

DUNCANVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—The owner of a garage that recently moved to a new location complained to police about pranksters who pulled a switch and turned a car right-side-up. The next morning he found the car resting properly on its tires instead of its roof.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Cummings is unveiling his fourth television series this fall, a show which he's kept shrouded in secrecy lest unsavory video thieves steal it.

Television has its share of idea bandits, but Cummings is the type of fellow who can keep a secret.

Bob's plans for his new CBS TV series "My Living Doll" have been in the works for months. When quizzed some time ago on his future plans Bob would answer in generalities — or else change the subject to flying, something he can talk about for days. He's an expert pilot.

In "Living Doll," Cummings co-stars with Julie Newmar and Jack Mullaney. Miss Newmar, a statuesque beauty, portrays a human robot, Cummings a doctor.

The idea is out of this world. Miss Newmar is the only leading lady on television who operates on solar batteries.

The new show is produced by Jack Chertok, who also films "My Favorite Martian." He's well-grounded in out of this world subject matter.

"We have a wonderful idea," Cummings said. "The secret of this show is in the believability of the robot which they have built into the likeness of one of America's most beautiful women. If we don't believe in her we won't believe in anything. 'The robot is one of the most

Don't Scratch

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The Department has some advice for outdoorsmen — resist the urge to scratch the irritating bites of chiggers, also called red bugs.

The pin-point size insects probably don't carry disease themselves, the agency warned, but their bites demand scratching which often causes secondary infections in the form of sores and boils.

Pain Killer

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Seattle surgeon has suggested blocking of a nerve to bring pain relief to patients with terminal cancer.

Medical World News, a publication for physicians, reports that Dr. L. Donald Bridger has used the nerve block to stop pain in 41 patients suffering from incurable abdominal cancer. With one exception, the patients experienced relief from pain for periods from six weeks to a year.

Land To Be Returned

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Kenya's ex-Mau Mau terrorists are to get back the land confiscated from them under British colonial rule during the eight years of their antiwhite activity, the government announced. Seven hundred ex-Mau Maus already have made land claims.

Campus Idea Features New High School

DUNCANVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Construction is to begin shortly on a new high school for 1,800 students featuring a "campus concept" rather than the traditional single-building school.

The $2.9 million project for this suburban Dallas County town will have five units with a total of 202,000 square feet, built in two stages. Architect Don Jarvis called it "a very unusual school, to put it mildly."

The campus plan, although not as spacious as that of a full college, allows compact arrangements of all academic, science and business classrooms and separate buildings for noisy, active or special-use areas. Eventually an auditorium, stadium and a gym will be part of the campus.

The two-story library and commons are in the center of the classroom building, surrounded by a mall which connects academic corridors. A central kitchen and air conditioning equipment installation.

"The first object of a free people is the preservation of their liberty — and liberty is only to be preserved by constitutional restraints and just divisions of political power. . . . Liberty demands checks . . . it fortifies itself against the assaults of ambition and passion. This is the nature of constitutional liberty: and this is our liberty — if we rightly understand and preserve it." — Daniel Webster.

There are some who would downgrade patriotism, love our country, who would speak slurringly of nationalism. In a textbook for budding diplomats, titled "The United States in the World Arena," by Walt W. Rostow, appointed as Chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Board, there appears this amazing plea for destruction of our national sovereignty and our existence as a nation (It is on page 549:)

"It is a legitimate American national objective to see removed from all nations — including the United States — the right to use substantial military force to pursue their own interests. Since this residual right is the right of national sovereignty and the basis for the existence of an international arena of power, it is, therefore, an American interest to see the end of nationhood as it has been historically defined."

Recently, UN Secretary General U Thant spoke out strongly for broader powers for the United Nations to intervene in the domestic affairs of member nations. The Secretary General said: "Events are changing so rapidly in the world that even the UN Charter, only 20 years old, must be interpreted in new and dynamic ways." Then he got specific, saying: "The interpretation, for example, of Article 2, Paragraph 7, on domestic jurisdiction has inevitably broadened in a world where what used to be exclusively domestic and national questions can now have important and sometimes violent effects far beyond the borders of the state in which they originate." Does this mean that if someone in, say, Africa doesn't like the way we are handling problems in America, the UN should have the authority to step in and straighten us out? I, for one, intend to continue to raise my voice against any attempt to weaken the sovereignty of the United States of America.

SOVEREIGNTY — Sad to say, there are some who would downgrade patriotism, love our country, who would speak slurringly of nationalism. In a textbook for budding diplomats, titled "The United States in the World Arena," by Walt W. Rostow, appointed as Chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Board, there appears this amazing plea for destruction of our national sovereignty and our existence as a nation (It is on page 549:)

MARYLAND CONTINUES TO GET CONTRACTS — The Navy Department informs me that it is awarding a $1,677,424 contract to Aerconia of Baltimore. It is for firing mechanisms for use in connection with the mine program. The work will be performed in Anne Arundel County, Hammonds Ferry Road.

OVER THE WAVES — I understand that already the traffic over and through the new Chesapeake Bridge-Tunnel is several times as heavy as the traffic previously accommodated by the bay ferries. A spectacular exhibition of intrepid engineering, the bridge-tunnel changes the geography of the Atlantic Coast. The builders have thrown nearly 18 miles of causeway, high bridge and deep tunnel across the mouth of the bay, a piece of water that is, in effect, open sea. The project is remarkable for it called for the taking of a great flotilla of barged equipment out onto a notoriously rough piece of salt water. Connecting the tip of the Delmarva Peninsula directly with the rest of Virginia for the first time in its long history, the bridge-tunnel throughway has shortened the coastal route for automobiles by more than an hour. It has already set off the boom in motels on the Eastern Shore. It promises broad changes along the whole length of the peninsula, which is shared by Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. Of the improved sea-road is a not-course! What else?

WHAT'S A "BARN"? — With the advent of nuclear power, a whole new language seems to be emerging. The Atomic Energy Commission has just put out a 37-page glossary of nuclear terms. It is very enlightening. For example, a "barn" may be time in its long history, the a structure for cows and horses and a hay loft to most people, shortened the coastal route for automobiles by more than an hour. It has already set off the boom in motels on the Eastern Shore. It promises broad changes along the whole length of the peninsula, which is shared by Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. Of the improved sea-road is a not-course! What else?

Salt Water Angling

NEW YORK (UPI)—Salt water sports fishermen for the first time are expected to catch as many fish as commercial fishermen in 1964, according to a leading tackle supplier.

This year 7 million salt water anglers will take home about 1.5 billion pounds, or more than seven pounds of fish for everyone in the United States, said Dick Wolff, vice-president of the Garcia Corp., including boats, bait, tackle, transportation, food and lodging, salt water fishermen will spend about $700 million.

RAF Prepared

LONDON (AP)—The Royal Air Force will fly extra police into action if the young "mods" and "rockers" gangs start trouble at seaside resorts over the bank holiday weekend Aug. 1-2. Earlier clashes between the stylishly-clad moderns and their leather-jacketed foes caused heavy damage at the resorts.

Youths Sent To Jail

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Jail terms of four months to a year were given 10 youths for disturbing the peace at a jazz concert, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported. It said the youths whistled and stamped their feet, shouted and smashed furniture during a Prague "big beat" concert.

The Distaff Dollar

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) — A woman investment banker says that women are as capable as men of making wise monetary decisions—if they read and study to gain a knowledge of the stock market.

Julia Montgomery Walsh, general partner in Ferris Co., Washington, D.C., so told a conference of women executives setting here. "The most important point is not so much how to invest as how to accumulate capital... pay yourself first, invest wisely and build," she said.

Gamma Detection

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gamma rays are now being used by potential buyers of commercial buildings and apartment houses to check the soundness of these structures. The rays see into steel, masonry and other materials, uncovering any flaws.

Testing laboratories throughout the country use the instruments, manufactured by Picker X-Ray Corp., White Plains, N.Y.

Beef For Roasting

Today's abundant beef supplies make it an ideal time to indulge your family's taste for steaks and roasts.

For a quick refresher course on cooking tender beef, here's some basic information from the American Meat Institute.

Tender cuts of beef from the ribs and loin should be cooked by dry heat, i.e., charcoal and oven-broiled or roasting and oven-roasted. These cuts may be served rare, medium or well-done.

STANDING RIB ROAST: To make carving easier, have the meat man remove the chine bone. Season roast with salt and pepper. Place fat side up in open roasting pan. A roast meat thermometer inserted into the center of the thickest muscle not touching bone or fat indicates doneness. Do not sear. Do not add water. Do not cover or wrap in foil. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) to desired doneness.

ROLLED RIB ROAST: Place roast on a rack in roasting pan and follow directions for preparing standing rib roast.

TIMETABLE FOR ROASTING

Cut	Wgt.	Apprx. Time hrs.	Internal Temperature
Roast, 4 lbs.	1 1/2	140°F. (rare)
standing (bone-in)	3	160°F. (medium)
6 lbs.	3 1/2	170°F. (well-done)
	3 1/2	140°F. (rare)
	3 1/2	160°F. (medium)
	3 1/2	170°F. (well-done)

	4 1/2	160°F. (medium)

	2 1/2	160°F. (medium)
	2 1/2	170°F. (well-done)
6 lbs.	3 1/2	140°F. (rare)
	3 1/2	160°F. (medium)
	3 1/2	170°F. (well-done)

*Ribs which measure approx. 6-10" from chine bone to tip of ribs. If ribs are cut longer, allow less time.

*Roasting times based on 4-lb. roast with 4 1/2" to 5-in. diameter; 6-lb. roast, 5 1/2" to 6-in. diameter. Roasts of smaller diameter require less cooking time.

Beef rump and sirloin tip roasts of top quality may be oven-roasted following the directions for the rolled rib roast; braise as pot roast if lesser quality.

BEEF STEAKS FOR BROILING

Sirloin, T-bone, porterhouse, club, rib, rib-eye and tenderloin steaks may be broiled. Steaks for charcoal or oven broiling should be cut at least one-inch thick. Steaks less than one-inch thick should be pan-broiled. These steaks may be served rare, medium or well-done.

CHARCOAL OR OVEN-BROILED STEAKS

Follow manufacturer's directions for pre-heating broiler. Place steaks on grill or on rack in broiling pan. Allow 2 to 5 inches between surface of steak and heat. The thickness of the steak and the degree of doneness desired determine the distance steaks should be placed from the heat and the length of cooking time. Broil steaks until well browned on one side, season with salt and pepper, turn and continue broiling until steak is cooked to the desired degree of doneness. Check doneness by cutting slit near the bone to check the color. Season second side.

PAN-BROILED STEAKS

Heat a heavy skillet and add only enough fat to avoid sticking. Brown meat on both sides. Reduce heat and continue cooking until meat is of the desired doneness. Pour off fat as it accumulates. Season before serving.

Potato Chive Puff Wins Applause

Packaged mashed potatoes get applause—especially from menfolk—when they are seasoned with chives and served puff-style.

Menu

Tomato soup, crisp crackers, broiled hamburgers, relishes, potato chive puff, green peas, bread tray, fruit gelatin, beverage.

Potato Chive Puff

1 four-serving envelope mashed potatoes
1 egg
White pepper
1 tablespoon minced chives (fresh or frozen)

Prepare the mashed potatoes according to package directions, adding the amount of water, salt, milk and butter called for. Beat egg until thick and ivory colored; fold into hot potatoes with pepper (to taste) and chives.

Turn into buttered 8-inch pie plate; bake in hot (425 degrees Fahrenheit) oven until puffed and potato peaks are lightly browned—about fifteen minutes. Serve at once.

Makes four generous servings.

Best Raisin Daisy Pie

A classic raisin pie with exciting accents of wine and pineapple.

1 (13-ounce) package dark seedless raisins (3 cups)
1/2 cup sherry
1 1/4 cups canned pineapple juice
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 cup light brown sugar (packed)
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter

Pastry for 9-inch crust and flower top

Combine raisins with sherry and pineapple juice. Cover and let stand several hours or overnight. Blend cornstarch with brown sugar and salt. Stir in raisin mixture. Cook, stirring, over moderate heat until filling thickens and clears. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon juice and butter. Turn into pastry lined pie pan. Cut out pastry flowers with cutter. Arrange over top of filling. Bake, below oven center, in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes until crust is golden brown. Cool before cutting. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

Blanc Mange Pie Is Refreshing

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Weight-watching is having its influence in the kitchen. Nowadays cooks are sometimes inclined to cut down on sugar when they evolve a new dessert recipe.

That's just what one cook did with this peaches-and-cream pie. Instead of the usual creamy filling that is high in sugar and low in liquid, she used a filling of blanc mange—low in sugar and high in liquid.

One word of caution: if you use a glass double boiler in making the blanc mange filling for this pie, you will have to cook it longer than if you use a utensil made of aluminum, enamelware or stainless steel. This matter of utensil material, we discovered several years ago, really makes a big difference when you cook with cornstarch.

And another tip: a blanc mange pie filling needs ample time for setting although it should be served as soon as possible after it is set.

Blanc Mange Peach Pie

1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup corn starch
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
2 eggs, well-beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 baked 9-inch pastry shell

Peach Glaze

Fresh peaches

In the top of an aluminum, enamelware or stainless steel double boiler, stir together the sugar, corn starch and salt. Gradually stir in milk, keeping smooth. Cook and stir constantly over rapidly boiling water until mixture is thick. Cover and continue cooking 10 minutes longer, stirring several times. Do not remove from heat; blend a little of the hot mixture into the well-beaten eggs, then stir back into remaining hot mixture in top of double boiler. Cook over boiling water for 2 minutes. Stir in vanilla. Cool to room temperature. Pour into baked pastry shell.

Prepare Peach Glaze. While the glaze cools, peel and slice enough peaches to make 2 cups; arrange over filling. Spread glaze evenly over peaches; chill until filling and glaze are set; serve as soon after that as possible.

Note: Have enough boiling water in the bottom part of the double boiler to leave drops on upper part when it is inserted and raised. If using a glass double boiler, cook 15 instead of 10 minutes before adding eggs; if, after this cooking period, the water in the bottom of the double boiler has evaporated considerably, replenish with boiling water to make up the original amount.

WHAT'S AS good as a cream pie with a fresh peach glaze. A cream pie with a glaze of fresh strawberries, blueberries or apricots! And all varieties may be made from one basic recipe.

Peach Glaze

1 tablespoon corn starch
Dash of salt
1/4 cup cold water
1/4 cup pureed fresh peaches
1/4 cup light corn syrup

In a small saucepan stir together the corn starch and salt. Gradually stir in cold water, keeping smooth. Stir in peaches and corn syrup. Cook and stir constantly over medium heat until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat. Cool 5 minutes.

Note: To puree the pared fresh peaches, crush or mash and then force through a strainer.

Accompaniment for meat: Sprinkle canned apple slices liberally with dried salad herbs and serve with cold sliced meat or chicken.

Ratatouille Nicoise

6 green peppers
3 onions
1 medium (1 pound) eggplant
1 cup olive oil
2-3 (1 pound) zucchini
4 tomatoes
1/2 cup vinegar
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons dried oregano leaves

Seed peppers and peel onions; coarsely chop both. Pare eggplant; cut into 1/2 inch cubes. Heat olive oil in a large skillet; add onion, green pepper and eggplant. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, 10 minutes. Cut zucchini into 1/2 inch cubes and coarsely chop tomatoes. Turn into a 3-quart casserole with sautéed vegetables, vinegar, salt, pepper and oregano. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 30 minutes. To serve, spoon each portion onto a lettuce leaf. If desired, garnish with sliced tomatoes and ripe olives.

YIELD: 6-8 servings.

Mushroom Magic

Add a flavor surprise to your favorite macaroni and cheese recipe. Just before baking, stir in a 2 1/2-oz. jar of drained sliced mushrooms and a few sliced stuffed green olives.

Coffee is second only to oil as the most important commodity in world trade.

Marinated Mushrooms The Easy Way

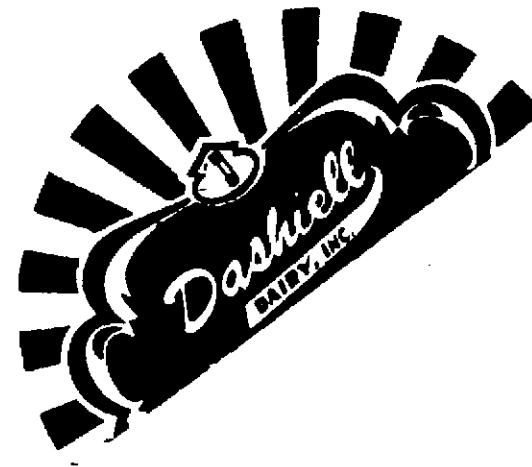

If you're looking for a tasty appetizer that calls for little time in the kitchen, try marinated canned mushrooms. They're bound to be a party spectacular. Simply open and drain one or two 4 1/2-oz. jars of whole mushrooms. Replace the drained mushroom liquid with Italian-style dressing. Then let your refrigerator chill and mellow the flavors for several hours.

Summer Cooler: Take 1 pint vanilla ice cream, 1 quart chilled apple juice. Froth'em together in your blender. Serve foamy in tall glasses with a dash of nutmeg on each. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Mushroom Equivalents

Canned mushrooms are available in a variety of styles, and they can be substituted for fresh mushrooms in most any recipe. One 4 1/2-oz. jar of sliced mushrooms is equivalent to approximately 1/2 pound or 1 pint of fresh mushrooms or 10 to 12 medium-sized mushroom caps.

Bavarian Style Pot Roast

Foods of other lands are found more frequently on tables in American homes today. But probably the best liked roast in the U. S. is the beef pot roast.
Pot roasts are cooked in the natural meat juices with perhaps a little water. Usually vegetables are added and a rich brown gravy is served with the roast. But variety is achieved by each individual cook who adds herbs and other seasonings. A pot roast is a good way to try a gourmet flair yet still please the family with their favorite meat dish. This Bavarian Style Pot Roast combines a subtle blend of flavors with the fork tender beef. It's fine for the family and elegant enough for guests.
Currently in high supply, beef should be used often during the easy-living summer months. When selecting a roast for braising, be sure to look for the insert label bearing the two most trusted words in meat. The bone shape is an easy guide for deciding the roast to buy. If a pot roast is desired, select a roast with a round bone or blade bone.
After browning the roast on all sides, slip a rack under the roast to hold it out of the juices so that the meat will cook evenly. Cover with a tight fitting lid and place over low heat to cook slowly. The liquid should just simmer. It's the long cooking of the meat at low temperatures that gives more tenderness and less cooking loss. Serve with hot buttered noodles that have been sprinkled lightly with caraway seeds.

Hearty Meat Specialties Make Interesting Dishes

Ever wish you could serve your family something new and different in meat? All of us occasionally get in a "rut" of preparing the same favorites day after day, ignoring many new adventures in eating. Once you start exploring, there's virtually no end to the meat ideas available.
Meat cutting experts say that there are approximately 100 different cuts of beef available, so there's bound to be a cut or two you've missed. Instead of buying the familiar round bone pot roast, choose cross-cut beef shanks or short ribs for individual pot roasts. The American Meat Institute suggests. Buy ox joints and duplicate at home the hearty specialty that many restaurants feature.
When it comes to variety, nothing surpasses ground beef. Meat balls, meat loaves, casseroles, sauces—you could serve a different ground meat dish every day for a year without repetition.
Pork Cuts
The number of retail cuts of pork is estimated at 200. Ham, a most versatile meat, is available in a size and style to fit every family. The wide selection of pork roasts may surprise you, too. Are you familiar with the economy of smoked boneless butt or the tasty nuggets of lean meat in smoked pork hocks? Besides using bacon as a main dish idea, discover the glamour and flavor contrasts it brings to many foods.
A whole new world of meal planning is yours when you turn to sausage. There are more than 300 varieties of exciting meat and spice combinations to brighten every meal of the day—sausage for hot dishes, salads, sandwiches and cold meat platters. Planning one or two meals around sausage each week is a good way to add interest at budget prices.
Surveys have shown that many people do not know the menu possibilities of lamb. Some home-makers are familiar only with lamb chops or leg of lamb. Select ground lamb for loaves and patties, lamb for stews lamb ribs and shanks for economy as well as top flavor.
Variety Added
What's more appropriate for adding variety to your dinner table than variety meats? Keep in mind such interesting dishes as liver and onions, fresh beef tongue with horseradish, braised veal hearts and kidney stew on rice.
Your grocer's big display of luncheon meat, sandwich spreads, tempting combination dishes and other meats-in-a-can offers ideas galore as well as built-in maid service.

Even if you become familiar with the infinite variety there is in meat, there's always something to try. Every year thousands of dollars are spent in the development of new products and better processing and packaging.
When you ask your meat market man, "What's new?", he's sure to have an answer.

Students Assist Teachers In Learning Mathematics

James G. Neilson, Frostburg, an algebra teacher at Allegany High School, is among teachers from 21 states and the Canal Zone who are learning new techniques in the teaching of mathematics and are being helped by 17 junior high school students attending the University of Maryland during the summer vacation.

This is only one of the many features of an Institute in Mathematics for Junior High School Teachers, but it is one of the most important. The students were recruited on a volunteer basis from local schools and all have just completed the sixth grade. The pupils form a demonstration class which illustrates the principles of the new curriculum which was, in part, developed at the university.

The curriculum was the result of two studies begun in 1957 known as the University of Maryland Mathematics Project and the School Mathematics Study Group, now located at Stanford University. Basically, what differentiates this curriculum from the older ones is the approach. The stress of the new curriculum is not only the "how" of mathematics, but the "why." The developers presumed that by teaching students not only the basic fundamentals of mathematics but also the underlying reasons or principles, the students would be in a better position to apply mathematics in the future.

Three Appeals Affirmed And One Is Reversed By Judge Naughton

Three lower court verdicts were upheld and another was reversed yesterday by Associate Judge Harold E. Naughton, during criminal appeal trials in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Naughton upheld the Trial Magistrate's Court verdict of guilty for David R. Hamilton, 28, of RD 1, Ridgeley, for exceeding 25 miles per hour on his motorcycle within the city limits, and for Carl Russell Rice, 22, of Baltimore Pike, for exceeding 40 miles per hour.

Hamilton appeared without counsel and presented his own case with his younger brother as a witness. He was fined $5 again, but $13 in Circuit Court cost were added.

In upholding the guilty verdict of Rice, Judge Naughton said the defendant's own testimony revealed he exceeded 40 miles per hour. Rice was fined $15 with $13 in Circuit Court cost added. Judge Naughton reversed the conviction of Lloyd Fishel of Paw Paw who had been found guilty in the lower court of trespassing on the property of Mrs. James Bible.

The finding of "not guilty" by the judge was accompanied by an admonishment to the defendant. Judge Naughton told Fishel that the verdict was reversed because the proper charge had not been made. "You would have gone to jail" if the proper charge were made, the judge said.

State cases were presented by Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason. Counsel for two of the appellants, Fishel and Rice, was Edward J. Ryan.

Appeal cases will continue to day and Thursday.

James Allan Paddleford, RD 5, was found guilty by Judge Naughton on a charge of operating a motor vehicle in a reckless manner on Oak Drive in Cresaptown, and the same $10 fine was imposed. However, Paddleford was required to pay $23 in Circuit Court costs as well as the $4 costs originally imposed in the lower court. He was represented by Attorney E. M. Horchler.

The Hamilton and Rice cases were appealed from decisions of Magistrate Leslie J. Clark. The Fishel case originally was heard by Magistrate John J. Zapf of Oldtown who had fined him $20 and cost and gave him 60 days in jail which he had suspended provided the defendant stay off

50 Workers Back On Job

Fifty employees of the rolling mill at the B&O Bolt and Forge Shop resumed work yesterday with repairs being completed in the control room, according to Rudolph Kompanek, shop superintendent.

Mr. Kompanek stated that on July 17 about 6:30 p. m. a bolt of lightning struck the rolling mill control room causing quite a bit of damage. Only a furnace room foreman was on duty when the lightning hit.

The storm caused damage in the South End and Mapleside areas of the city but in other sections no rain fell.

Of the U.S. families that own pets, 29 per cent of them own both a dog and a cat.

No. 410 The whole direction of the land after April 1864 depended upon what course U. S. Grant decided he could or should take. None of his predecessors in high command (1861-64) secured such freedom from restraint or constraint from the president or War Department as that with which Grant prepared for conjoined offensives all along the lines from Virginia to the Gulf of Mexico.

The unbridled authority Lincoln courageously let Grant have in that election year, when substantial military reverses were certain to diminish Lincoln's chances at the polls, are indicated in this [1] little known letter, promising that no "constraints or restraints" would be placed on Grant, and urging, "If there is anything wanting which is within my power to give, do not fail to let me know it."

Significantly, the letter was written after Grant had made a decision (April 17) which fomented anger immediately. He stopped the exchanges of prisoners which had been going on over two years. He placed hard fact above sentiment or humanitarian considerations. The South was suffering from a manpower shortage and needed every fighting man, while the North could stand the loss in numbers.

Refusal to send Rebels back south in return for Yankee prisoners meant prolonged suffering for the latter in Southern prisons. But every Rebel taken and kept insured a shorter war and fewer casualties.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

*Emmett's Mansion
Washington, April 24, 1864*

Dear General Grant:

Not expecting to see you again before the spring campaign opens, I wish to express, in this way, my entire satisfaction with what you have done up to this time, so far as I understand it, the particulars of your plans I neither know, or seek to know. You are a legitimate and self-reliant commander in war, and I wish not to be otherwise any constraint or participate in your plans. While I am very anxious that my great disaster, of the capture of our men in great numbers, should be avoided, I know that your plans are far better than any other plan that I could see. If there is anything wanting, which is within my power to give, do not fail to let me know it. And now with a warm greeting, and a few lines, I leave you.

*Yours very truly
Abraham Lincoln*

Truck Driver Found Guilty

Arnold C. Pettigrew, 32, of Benjamin Banneker Homes, driver of a truck that was involved in a four-vehicle collision Monday, was found guilty yesterday of driving with an improper license.

Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt suspended a $100 fine and dismissed two additional charges, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident. John Bates, 303 Paca Street, owner of the truck, was fined $15 and costs on a charge of allowing an unauthorized person to operate his motor vehicle.

An estimated $5,200 property damage was caused when the truck struck one car, which was rammed into a second car, and then crashed into the rear of a bus. In the process, a traffic light was badly damaged when one of the cars snapped a utility pole.

Deadline Set For Bike Tags

Local bicycle owners have until August 10 to purchase new license tags and have the bikes inspected, said Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney.

After that date, those who do not comply with regulations governing bicycles in the city limits will have their bikes impounded.

Bike tags have been on sale at police headquarters since June 15. Arrangements were made to have bikes inspected at playlots throughout the city where tags were sold.

Those who have not purchased their tags may do so Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. at police headquarters.

At the same time bikes will be inspected. Owners must have a headlight and warning signal such as a bell or horn, brakes, that are in good working condition and a reflector on the back fender.

Charleston Paper Asks Flood Funds Investigation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The Charleston Daily Mail called in a front-page editorial Tuesday for the summoning of a special grand jury to continue an investigation of handling of flood relief funds by the State Commerce Department in 1962.

The matter was looked into by the June grand jury which reported various irregularities but said it was unable to return any indictments.

The Daily Mail, a Republican newspaper, said the June grand jury "indicted everyone but the guilty" in a report that was "the most shocking in at least a generation" in Kanawha County.

Quoting from the earlier report, the newspaper noted that the grand jury found that the Commerce Department was "indiscriminate" in handling relief funds and that "manipulation of records was on the fringe of being irregular."

The report also had said that money was dispersed to some corporations hastily organized to do business with the state and that some payments were made to "dummy corporations."

"It is intolerable and inadmissible," the Daily Mail said, "that men can do the deeds attributed to them by the June grand jury and get away with it. And if they can, the whole fabric of law and order as the protection and mainstay of a decent social order is shot to ribbons."

The editorial called the grand jury report "a reflection upon the prosecuting attorney, his staff and their zeal for an interest in ferreting out the truth."

"It leaves obscured and tinged with doubt the role of Intermediate Court in enforcement of the law and the protection of the public."

"Even more so, this report is a stinging indictment of the Legislature and of the whole state of the law whereby men of 'extreme influence' can set up 'dummy corporations' to do business with the state, conclude their affairs and disappear without leaving a trace," it said.

The editorial said the grand jury has said that "it is possible and even probable that the public is being cheated and defrauded."

"And they have added that there is nothing the grand jury and the prosecuting attorney can do about it."

"We believe the first. We do not believe the second," it said.

Gus Triandos Supplies Right-Handed Punch As Phils Beat Giants, 4-0

Hits Second Round-Trip To Pace Win

Jim Bunning Limits G-Men To 4 Hits; Billy O'Dell Loser

By RALPH BERNSTEIN Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Big Gus Triandos' first home run in three months pointed Philadelphia to a 4-0 victory over San Francisco Tuesday night, boosting the Phillies' National League lead to 1½ games.

Slim Jim Bunning had a no-batter through 5 1/3 innings, then had to beat relief help from Jack Baldschun when he weakened in the ninth.

Triandos, only recently recovered from a hairline fracture of the right finger, belted a three-run homer just inside the left field foul pole off lefty Billy O'Dell in the fourth inning. It was Triandos' second of the season.

With Triandos supplying the right-hand power so markedly missing against southpaws in recent days — 10 of the last 12 Philadelphia defeats were by left-handers — Bunning coasted to his 10th win and his first since he beat the Giants at San Francisco July 4.

Bunning had the crowd of 29,380 in high excitement as he held the Giants hitless through the first 5 1/3 innings. But Hal Lanier slashed a single between third and short to shatter Bunning's dream of a third no-hit game, a feat accomplished by only three pitchers in major league history.

The Phillies put the game away in the fourth inning of this first of a three-game series that has the league lead at stake.

Tigers Beat Los Angeles By 6-3 Count

George Thomas' Fly Opens Gates; Ward Hits Pair

DETROIT (AP)—George Thomas' sacrifice fly in the seventh inning broke a 3-3 tie Tuesday night and pointed the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Thomas' sacrifice drove in Bill Freehan with the tie-breaking run after a two-run homer by Gates Brown had tied it for the Tigers in the sixth.

Detroit, though nursing a 4-3 lead, had only two hits through seven innings, but added two more runs in the eighth on a double by Al Kaline, a single by Norm Cash, Cash's steal of second and an error.

Pete Ward accounted for all the White Sox runs with a pair of homers, a two-run blast in the fourth and a solo drive in the sixth.

Detroit 000 002 120—4 0 0

Flag Cops Aqueduct Feature

Wins By Length Over Chronicle

NEW YORK (UPI)—Flag, a gelded son of Princequillo, carried jockey Bobby Ussery to a length and a half victory Tuesday in the $10,000 Jet Pilot purse at Aqueduct.

It was only the second lifetime win for Flag in 19 races and the chestnut owned by R.C. Kidder got it with a spirited run through the stretch to beat High Tide Stable's Chronicle in the mile and one-eighth race.

Mac Sweetie Stable's Dodgertown, the odds-on favorite in the small field of five, was third, three quarters of a length farther back.

The Gent was fourth with Armalad a distant last.

The crowd of 26,359 watched Dodgertown charge to the front at the start while Flag dropped back to last place. But on the turn into the stretch Chronicle and then Flag challenged the early leader.

Flag easily won the battle for the lead and then pulled away in the last eighth of a mile to finish in 1:51 3/5.

Flag, Ussery's second winner of the day, paid $5.90, $3.20 and $2.20. Chronicle returned $8.90 and $2.60 and Dodgertown paid $2.10.

Ussery also won the fifth race with Mikes Luck at $11.40.

Colts Report McKee Signed At Own Request

Declare Approval Given By Coach

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The eight members of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association of Western Universities have censured the Baltimore Colts for signing a Washington State fullback who had eligibility remaining.

Although the executive officer of the AAUW, Tom Hamilton would answer only "No comment" when asked about the situation, The Associated Press learned that action had been taken by the conference.

This action was touched off when the Colts signed Herm McKee, who had a year's eligibility remaining at Washington State despite the fact his class graduated in 1962.

The Colts replied that McKee was signed at his request and with the approval of his coach.

In a copyrighted story by Ed Eichenfeld, the Oakland Tribune reported the Colts had been made persona non grata on every campus of the AAUW.

Included in the AAUW, in addition to Washington State, are Southern California, Stanford, UCLA, California, Oregon, Oregon State and Washington.

A BIG LITTLE MAN—Nineteen-year-old Michael Venezia, No. 1 apprentice jockey at the Aqueduct (New York City) Race Track strides happily back to the jockey quarters after chalking up a daily double victory.

Hite hooked up in a pitching duel with Bill Kenney and registered his 14th win of the campaign when Stringtown scored its two runs in the first inning on Royce Waltman's single, Corky Jamison's double, which scored the first run, and a wild pitch. The loss was the fourth for Kenney, a 24-game winner.

Howard Wisler collected two of Stringtown's five safeties. Barrelville had five singles.

Third place Homewood Tavern turned back the Frostburg Jaycees by the score of 5-2 behind Leon Raygor who recorded his 14th win against eight losses.

Kenny Lough headed the Homewood hitters with a triple and two singles while Jerry Loibel and Buddy Croslen smacked doubles.

"Butch" Smith's two-bagger was among Frostburg's three blows. Curt Hosselrode twisted Hyndman to a 3-1 decision over National Jet at Hyndman and Kenell's Mill thumped Ellerslie, 11-2, in other games played Tuesday.

Hosselrode scattered six hits and struck out six. Larry Peters was tagged with the loss.

Sonny Emerick with a double and single and Bill Clayton with two hits paced the Hyndman hitters. Jim Peters and Tom Linn shared four of the Jets' six safeties. Clyde Kennell blasted a triple for the victors.

Kennell's Mill racked up a total of 13 hits, including Sonny Shroyer's homer and double, Kenny Neubiser's double and two singles, and two hits by Eddie May. Con-Hall collected a pair of hits for Ellerslie.

Hinton Homer Brings Nats 4-3 Triumph

Luis Tiant Victim Of Clout; Osteen Wins Ninth Game

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chuck Hinton's three-run homer in the fifth inning off rookie Luis Tiant gave the Washington Senators a 4-3 victory over Cleveland Tuesday night and handed the young Cuban pitcher his first major league defeat.

Tiant, who blanked the New York Yankees and held the Boston Red Sox to one run in his first two starts, had a no-hitter going for 4 2/3 innings.

Don Blasingame broke it up with a ground single to center, Joe Cunningham followed with a single to right, and Hinton crashed his 10th homer into the Indians' bullpen. The three hits were the only ones Washington had all night.

Tiant left for a pinch hitter in the seventh and Gary Bell held the Senators hitless over the last two innings.

Minnesota Hands Birds 7-4 Defeat

Zoilo Versailles Hits Two Homers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—PAUL (AP)—Zoilo Versailles cracked two home runs, his mates added two more and the Minnesota Twins, losers of 14 of their last 16, powered their way to a 7-4 triumph over Baltimore Tuesday night.

Versailles led off the fifth with his 12th homer of the season and added his 13th as the first batter in the eighth.

Jim Kaat, the Twins' starter, spotted Baltimore a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but Minnesota tied it on Jimmie Hall's two-run homer and went ahead to stay on Don Mincher's solo blow later in the home half of the first.

The Twins added two more in the fourth on Rich Rollins' single and John Gory's squeeze bunt.

Jerry Adair and Brooks Roberts hit homers for the losers. Baltimore, 200 000 110—4 11 1
Minnesota, 300 210 015—7 12 0
Roberts, Barber (5), Hall (7) and Brown, Kaat, Worthington (8) and Bailey, W—Kaat, 11-4, L—Roberts, 8-5.

Home runs—Baltimore, Adair (4), Robinson (13), Minnesota, Hall (17), Mincher (15), Versailles 2 (13).

AT MILWAUKEE (AP)—Denis Menke's two-out bases-loaded single delivered two runs in the seventh inning and helped the Milwaukee Braves edge the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 Tuesday night.

The Braves had been limited to just one hit—a fifth inning home run by Mike de la Hoz—when an electrical storm caused a 45-minute delay in the top of the seventh. When play resumed, Sammy Ellis replaced Reds' starter Jim O'Toole and the Braves greeted him with four hits.

Singles by Joe Torre, Ed Bailey and Frank Bolling loaded the bases against Ellis before Menke's hit put Milwaukee in front.

The Reds had jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Pete Rose singled and rode home on Frank Robinson's 17th homer. The shot came against Milwaukee starter Hank Fischer.

Cincinnati, 200 000 000—2 7 0
Milwaukee, 000 010 208—3 6 0
O'Toole, Ellis (7), Purkey (7) and Edwards: Fisher, Tiefenauer (8) and Bailey, Torre (8), W—Fischer, 9-5, L—Ellis, 4-3.

CONSECUTIVE WINNERS LONDON (UPI)—Gordon Richards, the greatest jockey in English racing history rode 12 consecutive winners over a three day period in 1933. The American record was set by Johnny Sellers at Atlantic City when he won eight straight in October, 1961.

NO SHUTOUT STREAK NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, once played 117 consecutive games without being shut out. The Rangers began the streak on Nov. 2, 1940 and were not blanked until December 31, 1942.

Braves Top Cincy, 3-2

Menke's Hit Wins Game In Seventh

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Denis Menke's two-out bases-loaded single delivered two runs in the seventh inning and helped the Milwaukee Braves edge the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 Tuesday night.

The Braves had been limited to just one hit—a fifth inning home run by Mike de la Hoz—when an electrical storm caused a 45-minute delay in the top of the seventh. When play resumed, Sammy Ellis replaced Reds' starter Jim O'Toole and the Braves greeted him with four hits.

Singles by Joe Torre, Ed Bailey and Frank Bolling loaded the bases against Ellis before Menke's hit put Milwaukee in front.

The Reds had jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Pete Rose singled and rode home on Frank Robinson's 17th homer. The shot came against Milwaukee starter Hank Fischer.

Dodgers Win As Drysdale Blanks Mets

Ailing Don Allows Just Seven Hits; Fisher Loses, 9-0

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Drysdale, pitching with a hairline fracture of his right thumb, held the New York Mets to seven hits and hurled his fourth shutout of the season as the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked New York 9-0 Tuesday night.

The Dodgers hopped on Met starter Jack Fisher for five runs in the third inning and coasted the rest of the way. Ron Fairly homered for two runs in the seventh and then doubled two more home in the eighth.

Drysdale lowered his earned run average to 2.14 en route to his 13th victory. He has lost nine.

Drysdale started the big Dodger third by reaching on Charlie Smith's throwing error. After Maury Wills sacrificed, Jim Gilliam singled Drysdale home. Willie Davis singled and Fairly walked to load the bases before Tommy Davis blooped a single for two runs. A force out and singles by Nate Oliver and Doug Camilli brought in two more.

Colts Are Unwelcome On Campuses Of AAWU

West Coast Colleges Are Iked Over The Signing Of McKee

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Tribune, in a copyright story, said Tuesday the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League "have been made persona non grata on every campus of the Athletic Association of Western Universities."

In the story by sports writer EKD Schoenfeld, the Tribune said the coaches recommended the action after the Colts this spring signed Washington State fullback Herm McKee who had a year of eligibility remaining.

"The coast coaches took a heated stand against the NFL club during the AAWU spring meeting in Seattle," the Tribune said, adding, "during the same meeting, the athletic directors ordered Executive Director Tom Hamilton to notify the Colts and (NFL Commissioner) Pete Rozelle of the conference stand."

Asked about the story Hamilton said "no comment." Rozelle said it was a "club matter." A spokesman for the Colts declared "our relations with the colleges have always been fine."

He had no further comment. Although McKee was drafted in 1962, he still had eligibility remaining. Under draft rules, a player becomes eligible to be drafted by a pro club when the class with which he started college graduates.

The Tribune said Coach Bert Clark of Washington State termed the signing of McKee "a breach of the code of ethics which the pro leagues have been trying to maintain with the colleges."

The story said Clark's protest touched off a censure of the Colts and that the Washington State coach had strong support from Coach John McKay of the University of Southern California Trojans.

Gary Player holds the club at lower end of the grip for better execution of short shots.

GARY PLAYER recommends approaching close enough to get down with one putt as the quickest way to lower scores. Player plays as he preaches, Gary, in executing shots within a hundred yards of the green, consistently uses three essential swing items.

These are: a short hold on the club, starting position with body turned toward the target, and hands held well ahead of the clubhead, also a steady head position long after striking the ball. Consistent use of these essentials would be most helpful to the weekend golfer any on practice.

The short hold on the club immediately brings better control of shaft and clubhead, makes the club feel lighter and easier to swing. Starting with the body turned toward the target and hands forward assures a better backswing.

A steady head keeps the downswing going properly, enabling the clubhead to strike the ball crisply and true.

Cardinals Beat Chicago, 12-7

Shannon's Homer Decides Contest

CHICAGO (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals erupted for five runs in the 10th inning Tuesday to beat the Chicago Cubs 12-7 and make a loser of Larry Jackson in his first relief appearance.

The Cards left off the big inning when Julian Javier's pinch single scored Dick Groat from third base. Curt Flood belted a two-run triple off Jackson and brought in reliever Leroy Gregory. He faced only one batter before Lew Burdette took over and gave up a two-run homer to Mike Shannon.

The Cardinals tied the score twice in their uphill victory and extended their winning streak to four games. Ernie Broglio, one of four former Cardinals in the Cubs lineup, faced his old teammates for the first time since he was traded to Chicago June 15.

Broglio lasted six innings. Tim McCarver's lead-off homer in the seventh and a single by Jerry Buchek brought in Lindy McDaniel, another ex-card and the first of three relievers used in that frame.

All combined to load the bases. Don Elston gave up a walk to Ken Boyer to force in a score-tying run at 6-6. The score was tied at 7-7 in the eighth when McCarver scored on an infield grounder.

The game was delayed for five minutes before the ninth inning because of "excessive heat and humidity," and plate umpire Doug Harvey left the game at that time due to exhaustion. Lee Weyer replaced him behind the plate.

Sheriff Charges Juvenile Betting CHICAGO (AP) — The acting sheriff of Cook County (Chicago) said Tuesday that his deputies will begin polling race tracks because track private police "can't or aren't doing their jobs."

Edmund J. Kucharski said his office has received many complaints from parents who observed juveniles betting at the tracks. He said no law permits deputies to arrest teen-agers but pari-mutuel clerks can be arrested for accepting bets from minors.

Solemn Bears Attend Funeral

NFL Team Holds Afternoon Practice

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN Associated Press Sports Writer

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP)—A solemn group of 55 Chicago Bears and their coaches, many of them constantly brushing away tears, attended funeral services Tuesday for halfback Willie Galimore and end John Farrington.

A sorrowful gathering of 150 paid last respects to the two star players killed in an auto crash Sunday night on a country road near their training camp at St. Joseph's College.

Mrs. Willie Galimore came from the family home in Tallahassee, Fla. She was accompanied by her brother, Josephus Abrams, and his wife, of Chicago.

Mrs. Galimore, mother of three small children, sat as if stunned throughout the services, conducted by the Rev. W. E. Vannest of the Church of the Nazarene.

Afterwards, she broke down in hysterical sobs, fainted and had to be carried into a waiting car.

The bodies of the two players were to be flown to their home cities from Chicago Tuesday afternoon.

Accompanying Farrington's body on the plane to Houston was teammate Charlie Bivins. Farrington's wife, married to the star end last March, was shaken by the tragedy that she was unable to leave Houston.

Going with Mrs. Galimore and Willie's body was teammate J.C. Caroline. Burial will be in Tallahassee.

Funeral ceremonies were simple. Requiem high mass was sung in St. Joseph's chapel Tuesday morning. Another was sung in New York City by Father Dudley, unofficial chaplain of the New York Giants, whom the Bears defeated last December for the National Football League championship.

George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, called the team out again in practice.

Dapper Cardinals Top Orioles, 5-3, Take Over Lead

By JOE KEICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles and the Chicago White Sox may have an ally in their efforts to topple the New York Yankees' American League dynasty this year.

The unwitting benefactor could be the schedule maker. For years the Yankees have been beating down the contenders in clutch series in September. This year the Yankees may be playing the scoreboard.

Through a quirk in the schedule, the Yankees end their season's play against both Baltimore and Chicago in mid-August. Thus, the Orioles and White Sox will not have to face the Yankees in the traditional pressure month of the campaign.

Psychological Break This should prove to be a psychological break for the two challenging teams, who have had little or no experience in late-season pennant drives.

The Yankees, in the past, have thrived on pennant pressure. The Orioles staged a genuine threat in 1960 but the Yankees squashed their hopes with a five-game sweep in September. The Detroit Tigers rose to challenge in 1961 but four straight losses to the Yankees in September ended their bid.

In 1962, Minnesota was the disillusioned challenger, bowing under the Yankee avalanche in September. Last year the White Sox brought their slim pennant hopes to New York for the last time and were defeated in the first three games of a four-game set.

The White Sox have lost all 10 games they've played against the Yankees this year. Baltimore's record against New York is six victories and five defeats.

The 14-day span from Aug. 7 through Aug. 20 will be crucial with the Yankees scheduled to play 15 games, eight with Chicago and seven with Baltimore. They meet the Orioles in a four-game series in New York Aug. 7-8-9 and in Baltimore in a three-game set Aug. 14-15-16.

The White Sox will be the Yankees' guests for four games Aug. 11-12-13 and their hosts for four Aug. 18-19-20.

Sen. Byrd Wants Coal Shortage In South Africa Probed By State Dept.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Re- agency due to a shortage of coal when ample supplies are available in West Virginia.

Byrd said he was told an analysis of the situation would be made at once by the American embassy in Johannesburg and the report is expected Tuesday.

Byrd said reports indicated that industry in South Africa will face a "complete breakdown" unless greater quantities of coal become available. The nation has hitherto always been able to produce its own coal needs. It ranks behind gold and diamonds as the country's third most important mineral.

Byrd said he felt coal producers in West Virginia, railroads, ports, and shippers would cooperate in arranging for the transportation of emergency stock. He added "It would be a tragedy to have one country of the world suffer a major emergency."

Reporter Finds Old-Time Religion In St. Augustine

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Writer

A lot of reporters are getting religion these days whether they want to or not. It's a sort of religion many know about only vaguely. It's that old time religion that is, apparently, good enough for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Covering this group which is headed by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. invariably leads reporters inside the Deep South's Negro churches. It can be quite an experience.

Somehow a hundred years of history, never really understood before, can flash with new clarity through one's mind in the space of a single hand clapping.

There was a quality to the singing that made you want to smile and weep at the same time. For the congregation, it could be consoling or challenging, depending on the need. Technically, the blend of voices was as polished as though they had rehearsed many times, and perhaps they had at previous meetings. But there also was a spontaneity about the singing which made it unmistakably a prayer. By no means a performance. It was moving, gripping, honest.

The New St. Paul A.M.E. church is a typical Negro church. Worn pews fanned off in three directions from an old pulpit which was red with thick coats of shellac. Behind the pulpit was a neon cross and the words, spelled in neon lights, "This do in remembrance of me." Neither the cross nor the words of Christ at the Last Supper were lit this night.

The floor was linoleum, cracked in places, and the walls were a washed-out pink with paint peeling in spots. The windows were stained glass, purple and burgundy and yellow, and they admitted precious little air into the stifling room. One of them was stuck closed. Two overhead fans, turning languidly, barely stirred the turgid air; now of much use were the cardboard hand fans with a picture of two well-scrubbed Negro children on one side and an undertaker's ad on the other.

The Negroes filed in slowly and took their seats. They began first with the old slave songs, choruses after melancholy choruses.

"Nobody knows the trouble I've seen," "Nobody knows but Jesus," "As the church filled the singing grew more spirited. They sang not to gentle Jesus meek and mild, but to the God who delivered the Israelites.

"I'm going to sit at the table one of these days, hallelujah!" "I'm going to sit at the table one of these days, hallelujah!" Hands began to clap, faces began to glisten and shirts and dresses began to darken under the arms and across the backs and pulses began to throb and toes and heels began to tap rhythmically.

Anybody unsure of the mind of the Negro during the St. Augustine struggle had only to hear the singing and listen to the wailing of the old men and women and the young boys and girls as their preacher preached to them.

"Y'all better trust in the Lord," he told them. "He's the only one you can count on."

"You can work in the white folks' kitchens and eat the white folks' food and take home Mr. Charlie's wore out shirts and Miss Ann's wore out dresses but the white folks ain't gonna help you when the Klan's a-riding."

"Amen!" "So y'all better straighten up and ask the Lord to help you."

"All right! Amen!"

The Tender Touch

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Low quality or tough cuts of beef will not barbecue well, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

For outdoor cooking, select tender cuts of top quality. Any cut of meat which you normally would roast or broil indoors is fine for the outdoor grill.

Willis Carrier was only 26 years old, one year out of engineering school, when his invention for air conditioning in 1902 solved a problem men had wrestled with for some 2,000 years.

George Street Project Plan Is Under Study

Civic Committees Will Be Briefed

The preliminary site plan for the George Street urban renewal project was presented to directors of the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency this week. A number of civic groups will be briefed on the proposal next month.

Major elements of the proposal were outlined by R. Jackson Seay, planner for Simonds and Simonds, consultants for CURA on the project, as:

The construction of the first section of the proposed Loop street from Williams Street to Bedford Street, adjacent to the running tracks of the B & O Railroad, which would form the eastern boundary of the project.

The realignment of Frederick Street and the construction of an underpass beneath the B & O lines. It would be designed to allow free movement in and out of the city's central core without interfering with the railroad. Plans call for two-way traffic and for the underpass to come to grade near Decatur Street and it is being designed so all development on the project side of the B & O tracks would be on grade.

Motel Proposed

The extreme north end of the project (north of realigned Frederick Street) would be set aside for residential development.

The area south of Frederick Street, on the north side of the project, has been designated as the site of a 100-unit motel facility, with restaurant and meeting room facilities and a 150-car parking area.

The plan also calls for the beginning of a new street which would eventually cut through from the Loop street to Mechanic Street at about Henry Street.

Below that, on the north side of Baltimore Street, land would be set aside for a new retail complex with pedestrian malls, landscaping and other amenities.

The area between this new retail area and the motel site would be set aside for a 160-space parking center to support the new retail stores and existing facilities on Baltimore Street.

Parking Provided

The area immediately south of Baltimore Street would be devoted to the development of a 300,000 square foot department store facility, with on-site parking for about 110 cars.

The plan sets aside the area south of Union Street as the site for another municipal parking lot with facilities for about 115 cars to serve both the project area and existing downtown retail stores.

Land below Harrison Street would be set aside for the expansion of light industries.

William F. DeMare, executive director of the agency, said the project would be developed on a site of about 20 acres bounded on the east and west by the B & O main tracks and George Street, and on the north and south by Bedford Street and Williams Street.

He said the plan is subject to revision while more detailed plans are being developed.

Will Be Briefed

Mr. Seay, he said, is setting up meetings during August with a number of groups, including the Urban Renewal Advisory Committee and Mayor's Advisory Committee.

During the meetings, he will brief the local groups on the principal details of the plan and will solicit recommendations.

The plan is being developed so it will supplement and not detract from the city's present downtown business core.

Mr. DeMare said the agency hopes to be able to submit the final plan to the Urban Renewal Administration's Philadelphia office in September.

Approval by that office of the plans would set the stage for a public hearing on the plan in early fall.

The George Street project is designed as part of a program to rehabilitate the center of the city over a 10-year period. Plans for this comprehensive program are also being developed by the Pittsburgh planning firm, and the local agency hopes to have that program ready to submit to federal officials about January 1, 1965.

Addresses Of New Property Owners Sought By City

Persons who have acquired property in the City of Cumberland since May 1 should notify the City Tax Office of the new address. Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill announced yesterday.

He said all transcripts furnished by the County Tax Office have been checked and the city tax records changed so the tax bills can be sent to the correct address of the new owner.

Mr. Hill said the city will make changes in address up to the time tax bills are mailed in September. Last year, he said, the city received notice of some 300 changes in address and made the necessary corrections.

The result was that only 21 of the some 8,000 tax bills placed in the mails were returned.

Mr. Hill said the finance office cannot change the name on tax bills but can and does see that the bills are sent to the new owner.

Second Hearing On Zoning Plan Set This Morning

The second public hearing on the proposed permanent zoning ordinance will be held today at 9 a. m. in the main court room in the Allegany County Court House by the County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Former Chief Judge George Henderson will be moderator. James Perrin, commission chairman, will open the meeting and Ralph Race, vice chairman, will read a summary of the proposed ordinance.

The commission announced that the format of the meeting will be similar to the public hearings conducted recently on the Cash Valley Road project and the Bedford Road Sanitary Commission proposal.

Specific questions concerning the ordinance will be received by the commission and answered. All questions and answers will be taken down by recording and by a stenographer for the official transcript. Discussions on particular phases of the ordinance will also be held.

Each person asking a question will come forward in the court room, and give his name and address to the moderator so that it can be included in the transcript.

Police Clear Entry, Theft

With the arrest of two local youths yesterday, city police said they had cleared up a breaking and entering and theft of about $2 from a local service station and an attempted breaking and entering of another business place earlier this month.

City Police Detective Captain James E. Van said a 13-year-old local boy signed a statement that he was involved in the two cases and also implicated a 16-year-old boy who will be taken to Juvenile Court later.

The arrests were made by Captain Van and Detective Harry Iser, who had been working on the cases for the past two weeks.

They said an attempt was made to gain entrance to Mason's Jug Store, 219 Greene Street. The culprits were frightened away by a neighbor who heard a window of the building shatter. He called police.

Bernie's Service Station, 638 Greene Street, was broken into after a window was shattered. The money was removed from an unlocked cash register.

Crops Still Need Rain

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Crops in Maryland and Delaware responded well to last week's rains, farm experts reported Tuesday.

The weekly survey by the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service found especially good growth by corn and soybeans. But the report said still more moisture is needed, particularly in the northern halves of both states.

In some areas, July rainfall has totaled twice the amount received throughout the entire months of May and June, the service said.

Wheat yields, with combining nearly complete, were reported generally good to excellent. The spring oat crop, with the harvest about 70 per cent complete, were rated only fair to poor.

Penitentiary Terms Imposed Upon Two Men

Third Trial Starts In Grant County

Two men were sentenced to five to 18 years in the West Virginia Penitentiary at Moundsville yesterday by Judge David E. Cuppett Jr. in Grant County Circuit Court at Petersburg after they pleaded guilty to charges growing out of the armed robbery of an 84-year-old farmer in April.

The men, both from Pendleton County, are Roy Lee Holloway, 33, and Carman E. Bergdoll, 51. Holloway first pleaded guilty to armed robbery April 14 of $9,000 in cash and notes from Evers Groves, 84, who lives on a farm three miles north of Petersburg.

Grant County Prosecuting Attorney James Paul Geary said Bergdoll, who is Mr. Geary's son-in-law, pleaded guilty to being an accessory before the fact in the armed robbery. Mr. Geary said that under West Virginia law the penalty for being an accessory to armed robbery is the same as for armed robbery itself.

After these two guilty pleas Bergdoll's son-in-law, Donald Lee Alexander, 26, also of Pendleton County, pleaded not guilty to being an accessory before the fact.

A jury was impaneled and the state rested its case against Alexander about 4:30 p.m. Defense attorneys James E. Ansel of Moorefield and Harry McCullough of Petersburg will present their witnesses this morning. The jury is expected to get the case about noon today.

The robbery was investigated by State Police Cpl. V. N. Brack-enrich.
